Meaningful accountability sought by US

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

THE US has said it would not be fully satisfied until there is "meaningful accountability" resulting from India's investigations into the foiled murder-for-hire plot against Khalistani radical Gurpatwant Singh Pannun on American soil.

"We continue to expect and want to see accountability based on the results of that investigation, and certainly the United States won't be fully satisfied until there is meaningful accountability resulting from that investigation," State Department Deputy Spokesperson Vedant Patel said on Wednesday. He said this in the context of the US visit of an Indian enquiry committee on the case for talks last week.

Of the two main players in the alleged plot, Nikhil Gupta is in a US jail as Prague extradited him months after his arrest. The US recently named former RAW field officer Vikash Yadav as Gupta's handler and the alleged mastermind in the conspiracy. Yadav no longer works for RAW. In an unrelated case of extortion and kidnapping, Yadav was arrested by the Delhi Police in December last year and lodged in Tihar Jail for over four months till he managed to get regular bail. Patel said that there was "valuable engagement with India's inquiry committee last week". Information, he said, was also exchanged between "our two governments to further our respective investigations."

Special representatives to oversee peace and tranquility on border

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

TAKING off from the recent agreement on patrolling and disengagement along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in eastern Ladakh, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping on Wednesday initiated steps to normalise bilateral relations by issuing directions to revive various dialogue mechanisms.

The talks happened on the sidelines of the BRICS Summit in Kazan for about 50 minutes, almost five years after a bloody faceoff at Galwan in eastern Ladakh in 2020.

"India-China relations are important for the people of our countries, and for regional and global peace and stability. Mutual trust, mutual respect and mutual sensitivity will guide bilateral relations," said Modi.

Welcoming the agreement for complete disengagement and resolution of issues that arose in 2020 along the LAC, Modi underscored the importance of properly handling differences and disputes and not allowing them to disturb peace and tranquility.

"The two leaders agreed that the Special Representatives on the India-China boundary question will meet at an early date to oversee the management of peace and tranquility in border areas and to explore a fair, reasonable and mutually acceptable solution to the boundary question. The relevant dialogue mechanisms at the level of Foreign Ministers and other officials will also be utilised to stabilise and rebuild bilateral relations," according to the foreign office.

The two leaders affirmed that stable, predictable, and amicable bilateral relations between India and China, as two neighbours and the two largest nations on earth, will have a positive impact on regional and global peace and prosperity.

Closer India-China ties will also contribute to a multi-polar Asia and a multi-polar world. The leaders underlined the need to develop bilateral relations from a strategic and long-term perspective, enhance strategic communication and explore cooperation to address developmental challenges.

Later, Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri said both Modi and Xi stressed that India and China can have a "peaceful, stable and beneficial bilateral relationship" with maturity and wisdom, and by showing mutual respect for each other's sensitivities. He said peace in the border will create space for returning towards normalisation of bilateral relations. P9

Yogeshwara Cong's Ch'patna candidate

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

IN an expected development, former BJP MLC CP Yogeshwara, popularly known as 'Sainika,' rejoined Congress on Wednesday. Subsequently, Congress announced that Yogeshwara will be its candidate in the coming byelection to the Legislative Assembly from Channapatna constituency.

His return has sent ripples across the political spectrum, with many insiders suggesting that his move would give Congress an advantage in Channapatna. However, some political analysts opine that something unexpected could happen in Channapatna like in Bangalore Rural, where Deputy Chief Minister and Vokkaliga strongman DK Shivakumar's brother DK Suresh lost to BJP's Dr CN Manjunath, a political novice, in the recent LS elections.

According to experts, the factors that led to his return to Congress are the party's vote base in the constituency, which is estimated to be between 30,000 and 40,000, is expected to back him. Yogeshwara's strong political background is hard to ignore. In 2018, Yogeshwara secured 66,000 votes. In 2023, that number increased to 80,000, despite BJP's core vote base in the constituency being less than 20,000. Normally, the party that is in power is expected to win the bypoll.

However, Yogeshwara's journey back to Congress is not without controversy. His political career has been marked by alliances with many parties, including Congress, BJP and SP. His victory in Channapatna twice in 2004 and 2008 under the Congress banner was followed by losses in the 2018 and 2023 elections, raising questions about his ability to regain the trust of voters. B'luru building collapse toll rises to 8

RAKSHITH GOWDA @ Bengaluru

WITH rescue teams recovering seven more bodies on Wednesday from under the debris of the under-construction residential building that collapsed in the city on Tuesday, the death toll has gone up to eight.

Efforts were on to trace two more people trapped under the debris. Meanwhile, Hennur police arrested three people in connection with the incident.

The deceased have been identified as Armaan, 26, Mohammed Sahil, 19, Sri Ran Kirupal, 35, and Solo Paswan from Bihar; Manikantanan, 26, and Satyaraju, 25, from Tamil Nadu; and Tulasi Reddy and Pulchan Yadav of Andhra Pradesh.

Of the 14 workers rescued, six are being treated in various hospitals in the city. The teams used earth movers, iron cutters and other equipment in the rescue operation. Sniffer dogs and DRDO's 'Divine Eye' device helped the teams in tracing the trapped construction workers.

Police said, "Efforts are on to trace construction workers Elumalai and Gajendra trapped under the debris." Residents of the locality, however, expressed fears that a woman and her child were inside a temporary shed on which the building collapsed. Police said that the building had approvals from civic agencies for ground and three floors. P3

• 20 flat owners lock themselves inside their flats • DCM says 95 per cent of residents evacuated to safety

DOORS OF FLATS BROKEN TO EVACUATE RESIDENTS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar, during his visit to Kendriya Vihar apartments to monitor the evacuation of residents on Wednesday, directed Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath to break open the doors of about 25 flats, as owners had locked themselves inside, refusing to be evacuated.

Addressing the media, Shivakumar said 95 per cent of the evacuation was complete, and only five per cent was pending. "There are 603 flats housing thousands of people in Kendriya Vihar. Most of them are central government workers and their families, and have been evacuated. Following talks with the residents welfare association, the BBMP has taken over the apartments due to the flood emergency. There is no water, power and food. Fearing for the health of about 20 flat owners, who have locked themselves inside their flats, BBMP has been ordered to take the association and police and break open the doors and evacuate them," he said.

Executive engineer Sudhakar Reddy said residents of 27 flats are not opening their doors, and claim they have enough food stocks and UPS. Efforts are on to convince them to open their doors as BBMP has to take up cleaning work. Water has completely receded and there are chances of contamination.

The DCM mentioned that residents may be emotionally attached to their homes and may refuse to come out, but their safety is important. He said they will be put up in nearby hotels for a week and once the situation becomes normal, they can return to their homes. Asked for a solution to stop flooding in future, he said, "In the history of Bengaluru and Yelahanka, it has rained more than usual after 115-120 years. We had no idea we would get so much rain. Water is entering every area and places are being identified to make arrangements for its smooth flow."

Shivakumar said officials have found the source of the flood -- the area was earlier a wetland, the buffer zone of a lake. He said that stormwater drains will be completely redesigned with the National Disaster Mitigation Fund, and they will seek Rs 1,700 crore for this from the World Bank. Redesigning will be taken up across the city, blockages will be removed and lakes restored.

Bengaluru South sees 35mm rain in 40 mins

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

HEAVY rain on Wednesday evening flooded over 100 houses, inundated roads and disrupted traffic in several areas of Bengaluru South. As per the Varunamitra app, the area recorded 24-35 mm rain from 4 pm to 4.40 pm.

The worst affected areas were Ramakrishna Nagar and Fayazabad in Yelachanahalli ward where rainwater and sewage from overflowing drains entered more than 100 houses. Residents there said despite several complaints to the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) about flooding in the past, their issues remained unattended.

"Around 4 pm, Bengaluru South witnessed heavy rain, which inundated roads and flooded around 100 houses in Yelachenahalli. Just 15 to 20 minutes of moderate to heavy rain is enough to flood the whole area and this issue has remained unaddressed for the last 12 years," said Gulab Pasha, a social worker.

Roads in BTM Layout, Madivala, Arakere, Bommanahalli and Kanakapura were inundated which led to slow-moving traffic. The rain in these areas also affected traffic on Hosur Road, Electronics City and Outer Ring Road.

Meanwhile, Sai Baba Layout in the tail end of Bengaluru was flooded again due to rainfall in upstream areas.

Deputy Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar visited the layout with local MLA Byrathi Basavaraj.

The residents said Basavaraj and BDA and BBMP officials asked the residents to adjust to the situation for a few more months as work on the additional vent under the railway bridge is going on and will be completed by summer.

Rs 10K relief for rainwater intrusion in houses

Bengaluru: DCM DK Shivakumar said a compensation of Rs 10,000 each will be paid to houses affected by rainwater intrusion apart from arranging temporary accommodation and food for those without housing. "Instructions have been issued to clear encroachments of stormwater drains immediately. Work is already under way to desilt the stormwater drains with a loan of Rs 1,000 crore from the World Bank," he said. ENS

Brimming lakes raise risk of overflowing waters

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

DUE to the heavy downpour in the last few days, a majority of lakes in Bengaluru are now filled to the brim. This has become a cause of concern with BBMP officials and resident welfare associations saying that the lakes could now become a reason for flooding as most of them are nearing the danger mark and anymore rain will aggravate the situation.

"The present flooding in parts of the city is mainly due to clogged drains and encroachment, but not due to overflowing lakes. Now, of the 183 water bodies across the city, 100 are full. If the intensity of the rain continues to be the same, things could become difficult," a senior BBMP official said.

The official said till Tuesday, 80-85 lakes were full, but on Wednesday, this swelled to 100. The Palike is taking ground reports from field engineers on a regular basis and monitoring the situation.

As per data from the civic body, major lakes at Allalasandra, Doddabommasandra, Rachenahalli, Kattigenahalli, Singapura, Vadereahalli, Venkatapura, Puttenahalli, Amruthahalli, Hebbal, Agrahara, Bhattarahalli, Haralur, KR Puram, Madiwala and Bannerghatta are completely full.

The data also showed that some other water bodies are 27%-78% full. These include Bettahalli Lake (27% full), Srinivasapura (33%), Doddanekundi (77.8%), Gangashetty (30%), Gunjur Mouji (30%), Horamavu (46.88%), Panathur (33.33%), Siddapura (64%), Vibhuthipura (66.67%), Sankey (78.26%) and Nayandanahalli (75.48%).

"As many as 10-15 lakes are yet to be filled to the brim. The catchment area and sewage treatment plants also play a role in ensuring whether a lake is full or not. A close watch is being kept on them too," the official added.

Four years up, lack of BBMP Council hits micro-management

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru:

IN the absence of a full-fledged BBMP Council and councillors for more than four years, the city's 1.4 crore people and their civic issues, especially during the monsoon, pose a challenge as the burden of micro management is on MLAs, MPs and BBMP ward officials.

Bengaluru, a thickly populated metro with 198 wards, also has a considerable floating population. Despite growing civic issues, Bengaluru has functioned without a full-fledged governing Council, and this is the fourth time the city has no councillors during the monsoon. There was no Council from 2007 to 2010 too.

Senior BJP leader and former deputy mayor S Harish told TNIE that during the monsoon, if there are any rain-related issues, the first contact person for residents is the local councillor. There is a set of officials in each ward office, but it is the councillor who can get them to work. The councillor has a hold and is good at micro management, which might be difficult for MLAs or MPs. Councillors know every road and layout in their wards, especially low-lying areas. Also, a councillor carries accountability, which might not be true for a ward official.

Harish said every election in the state is conducted on time, whether it is Assembly or Lok Sabha or even MLC polls, but BBMP polls are almost always delayed. Every time, they come up with reasons like reservation or delimitation, forcing the authorities to conduct polls late. The BBMP poll related case is before the court.

A senior BBMP official on anonymity said each ward is formally represented by a councillor, who has his own set of people who are available at the doorstep at just a phone call. This kind of system or mechanism is not possible with a ward engineer or MLA. The system is managed well if it is decentralised. Officials point out that Councillors and their team would reach the spot and resolve issues much faster than MLAs and other mechanisms.

He said that in the absence of councillors, the burden on MLAs, MPs and officials has increased. "The duty of MLAs and MPs is to make laws and not monitor floods or stagnant water on roads," he added.

The matter has been in various courts, including the Supreme Court, which later directed the state government to hold polls. But the government is delaying it, citing ward reservation for the new 225 wards. Meanwhile, the government is also gearing up for Greater Bengaluru Governance Bill.

PETER VIDAL

24TH October: Mercury, planet of thoughts, words and all good ideas, changes position today. That takes it from a sober, serious mood to a lively, imaginative one. It follows that all of us, no matter what our individual signs, can shift slightly from a mindset in which the only useful ideas have a practical result, to one in which we can lie back and enjoy our dreams.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
One particular cycle or chapter in your personal life is now coming to an end. The real situation is very complex, as what was once so simple begins to involve more people and fresh, exciting possibilities. Still, there's no reason why life shouldn't be more complicated. It might even do you some good!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Emotional adventure is around the corner. Those of you who are lucky enough to be travelling could run into a holiday romance, or even if you're staying put, someone from far away might soon come calling. If we look at your deeper needs, we see a desire for change, variety and stimulation.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You will begin to see what other people are really talking about. The funny thing is that even if they're speaking total nonsense, you'll see the answers to a whole set of current questions! You might even realise that you were looking in the wrong place.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You may be trapped between the devil and the deep blue sea, unable to make up your mind. The phrase which comes to the fore is 'why bother?', although in your heart of hearts you know that you will soon find a way forward. If you want, wait until circumstances have moved on slightly.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
At work, everything depends on how well you get on with colleagues. Even at home personal relationships are now vital, and if there are any problems at all, I suggest you devote great effort towards persuading others to see eye to eye with you.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Affairs of the heart could be about to take off once again. An almost perfect alignment in your chart indicates a nearly ideal prospect of passionate encounters, while a further planetary aspect indicates that no effort will be spared. Your rewards will come later.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Lovers and children are both adding to the weight of responsibilities which is gradually spreading across your shoulders. You should be aware of the extent to which you can inadvertently encourage such burdens and learn to say 'no' when once you said 'yes'!!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Personal pressures may relax slightly, but you are still obliged to sit down and work out exactly what you want. Only when you are clear in your own mind will you be able to set about persuading family members, or anyone else you live with, that you are right.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Home and family affairs will provide a welcome distraction from more weighty concerns, such as what to do about financial commitments that are starting to run out of control. You may seize whatever opportunity you can to assert your own authority.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You may be slightly perplexed or bemused, but it probably doesn't matter - not too much, at any rate! All the indications are that you will be able to manipulate and manage other people with a smile here, a firm word there - and they'll love every minute.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
In affairs of the heart, the demand for security and stability is now increasing quite fast. You will therefore be beginning to lose interest in friends who are passing through, and will be growing very much more concerned with long-term bets. That's probably a good thing.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
It's a fine time to take on more responsibilities at work. This might sound like strange advice, but the professional arena is probably the best venue for the exercise of your maternal qualities: if others are depending on you, exercise your power with wisdom.

'DIVINE EYE' A BOON FOR RESCUE TEAMS

RAKSHITH GOWDA @Bengaluru

THE NATIONAL Disaster Response Force, State Disaster Response Force and Fire department personnel , carrying out rescue operations at the building collapse site in Hennur, were helped by a 'Divine Eye' on Wednesday. The device helped the rescue teams detect those trapped under the debris.

The illegal six-storey under-construction building had collapsed on Tuesday evening, and rescue operations were on to bring out survivors and bodies. A team from Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) arrived on site with their advanced 'Divine Eye' device. Also known as Divyachakshu, the device is a through-barrier imaging radar, developed by the Electronics and Radar Development Establishment (LRDE). It is capable of detecting movement through walls, making it useful in rescue operations and hostage situations.

The DRDO team used the device and located a few bodies trapped under the debris, including that of Tulasi Reddy. After tracing the location of the victims, the rescue teams deployed bulldozers to clear the hurdles so the victims could be easily reached and rescued.

Ammamani, daughter of Jagamma alias Jagadevi, told TNIE that her 55-year-old mother, who had been suffering from leg pain, was critically injured in the collapse, with severe wounds to her hands, legs and waist. Ammamani said she felt fortunate to be alive, as she would have been working alongside her mother, but the contractor decided to take only one female worker that day. Her mother had just returned to the ground floor from the washroom when she heard the building cracking and leaning. She screamed before the structure collapsed. Local residents rushed her to a private hospital, where she is undergoing treatment. Ammamani added that 25-30 labourers worked daily in the building. She and her mother had been working in the building for the past five months.

Mariyamma was waiting anxiously, crying and praying for the safe rescue of her son-in-law Elumalai, a labour contractor, trapped under the debris. She has two daughters and the family has been living in Bengaluru for years. Sohail, a friend of one of the deceased, Armaan, said he had a narrow escape as he was outside at the time. He mentioned that seven labourers from Bihar were working at the building that day. Stating that all the deceased were from very poor backgrounds, Sohail lamented that their families would be devastated. The group had been carrying out flooring work on the third and fourth floors since August, he told TNIE.

Building began to lean on Tuesday noon, says survivor

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

WHILE eight workers lost their lives in the building collapse, Pratap Reddy, a native of Chittoor in Andhra Pradesh, had a miraculous save even after getting trapped under the debris for some time.

Reddy told TNIE that on Tuesday afternoon, after the rain stopped, the building began to lean while he was laying tiles on the third floor. "Luckily there was a door nearby. I kicked the door and came out of the building, after it collapsed," he said, adding that he and his friend were engaged in tile works in the building for a month. He also mentioned that he hadn't seen the owner and had been in contact only with the contractor. Reddy, who escaped with minor injuries, came to the spot on Wednesday to learn about others still trapped in the building.

Lokayukta registers suo motu case

Lokayukta Justice BS Patil, who visited the spot, said the Lokayukta has registered a suo-motu case in connection with the incident. "There is no sanction plan or license to construct the building. Sources said that the illegal building has been under construction for the past two years and the BBMP officials failed to stop the work. Notice will be served to all the officials concerned. Illegal constructions must be stopped at the beginning instead of serving notices after the building is constructed. If the construction itself is halted, there will be no question of demolition. Temporary electricity supply must be disconnected. There are around 400 to 500 illegal construction cases in the city and a similar incident should not arise anymore. Besides, the public should also know their responsibilities," he said.

OWNER ILLEGALLY ADDED 2 MORE FLOORS: POLICE

Bengaluru: Owner of the six-storey building that collapsed in Babusapalya on Tuesday afternoon added two more floors to the buidling constructed on a 60x40 site without permission. Moreover, substandard construction materials were used. The police said that they arrested building owner Muniraj Reddy, his son Bhuvan Reddy and contractor Muniyappa after registering a case based on a complaint from Mohammed Arshad, a worker from Bihar. Labour contractor Elumalai, who is also believed to be trapped under the debris, has also been booked.

BBMP HAD PUT THE COLLAPSED BUILDING UNDER LENS A MONTH AGO, AEE SUSPENDED

Bengaluru: A day after the collapse of a six-storied building in Babusapalya, which resulted in eight deaths and multiple injuries, it has come to light that the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) had issued three notices seeking documents from the owner and later directing him to remove unauthorised floors. The Assistant Executive Engineer of Horamavu sub-division of BBMP Vinay has been suspended for dereliction of duty. According to official records, the first notice under Section 313 of the BBMP Act 2020 was issued on April 24 to the owner Muniraj Reddy, asking him to submit the documents of land ownership and type of construction within seven days. The second notice under section 248 (1) of BBMP Act 2020 was issued on September 13, confirming violations like deviation and unauthorised floors and asking the owner to remove them. At that time, the building had five floors. Again on September 21, another notice under Section 248 (3) of the BBMP Act 2020 was served, asking him to clear the unauthorised construction, but the owner not only ignored it but also added another floor. However, other than issuing notices, no strict action was taken, thus leading to the tragedy that claimed eight lives. In line with BBMP regulations, a demolition notice should have been issued under Section 356 of BBMP Act 2020. The entire process, from issuing the first notice till the demolition, is supposed to be completed within 117 days. However, due to the delay and negligence by Palike officials, the unfortunate incident occurred.

HDK case: HC seeks explanation from cop on 'blowing hot and cold'

Bizman had approached police against Kumaraswamy, ex-MLC alleging extortion, life threat

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

IN THE HC

OBSERVING that the Station House Officer (SHO) of Amurthahalli police station in Bengaluru city appears to have blown hot and cold, the Karnataka High Court on Wednesday sought an explanation from him as to why an endorsement was issued by closing the complaint. The SHO had termed it to be a non-cognisable report (NCR) at first, when it was filed by businessman Vijay Tata against Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy and former MLC HM Ramesh Gowda, and later the same day, registered an FIR against them invoking charges of extortion and life threat.

Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order after hearing the petition filed by Ramesh Gowda, questioning the legality of the crime by Amruthahalli police, based on the complaint filed by Vijay Tata for allegedly demanding Rs 50 crore for the Channapatna by-election.

Recording the submission of Additional State Public Prosecutor BN Jagadeesha, that city police would not take any precipitative action on the complaint till October 29, the next date of hearing, the court said the SHO appears to have blown hot and cold. Therefore, the court has to intervene and get his explanation, the judge added.

Arguing on behalf of the petitioner, senior advocate Prabhuling K Navadagi submitted that the complainant alleged that former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy and the petitioner visited his house for dinner on August 23, 2024, and allegedly demanded Rs 50 crore to meet election expenses. The complaint, dated October 1, was registered as an NCR several days after the alleged incident, and an endorsement was issued by closing it, terming it to be an NCR on October 3.

"We don't know what happened on that day, the FIR was registered on the very same complaint, making allegations of extortion although a bare reading of the complaint does not disclose the offence. Once the NCR is issued, how can the FIR be registered? Further, the petitioner also filed a complaint against Vijay Tata, but it was not registered by police, saying they will investigate it along with the complaint filed by Tata. Therefore, the SHO has to give an explanation, Navadagi argued.

Yogeshwara to fight from Ch'patna, Annapoorna from Sandur

State Congress chief and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar welcomes former MLC CP Yogeshwara into the Congress, at KPCC office in Bengaluru on Wednesday | SHASHIDHAR BYRAPPA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress on Wednesday evening announced its candidates for the bypolls to Channapatna and Sandur Assembly constituencies. As expected, former BJP MLC CP Yogeshwara, who joined the Congress earlier in the day, will be fielded from Channapatna.

E Annapoorna, wife of Ballari Congress MP E Tukaram, will fight the November 13 bypolls from Sandur.

The Congress is yet to announce its candidate for Shiggaon, where the BJP has fielded Bharat Bommai, son of former chief minister and Haveri MP Basavaraj Bommai.

Earlier in the day, Yogeshwara met Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and DyCM DK Shivakumar. The former minister's candidature was announced by AICC general secretary KC Venugopal. Yogeshwara had resigned as BJP MLC on Monday.

Now, all eyes are on the JDS camp which has been given the responsibility by the BJP to finalise the candidate for Channapatna.

Channapattana Assembly constituency which was represented by former Chief Minister and Union Minister HD Kumar Swamy has become a prestigious seed for both Congress and jds leaders. After losing their seat at Bengaluru rural Loksabha seat, in the recent lok sabha polls, DK shivkumar has taken this polls as personal battle.

As expected, Annapoorna will now be contesting the polls from Sandur, an ST Reserved constituency. She will take on BJP's Bangaru Hanumantha, who is the BJP ST Morcha state president.

The bypolls to Channapatna, Shiggaon and Sandur were necessitated following the election of HD Kumaraswamy, Basavaraj Bommai and E Tukaram, respectively, to the Lok Sabha in this year's General Elections.

Yogeshwara's induction shows Cong weak: Ravi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

SENIOR Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader and MLC CT Ravi said the ruling Congress has admitted its weakness in Channapatna by inducting former BJP MLC CP Yogeshwara into the party ahead of the Assembly bypoll there.

Ravi told reporters here on Wednesday that Congress has the entire government and powerful leaders like Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister and KPCC president DK Shivakumar and 136 MLAs, still they are giving the ticket to Yogeshwara for poll.

This shows Congress has accepted its weakness already, he added. Shivakumar was confidently saying till recently that they have a party candidate, he ridiculed.

Ravi said there is a difference between the politics of BJP and Yogeshwara. "He plays politics at his personal level. He thinks of profit and gain in politics all the time. But ours is an ideology-based party," he said.

'BJP will work for Channapatna'

BJP will fight polls and work for the Channapatna NDA candidate, he added. BJP state president BY Vijayendra said Yogeshwara joining Congress was expected as he was in touch with Congress which was known. "But our party workers are with us," he said.

"JDS will decide the candidate to contest the Channapatna bypoll. Whoever is the NDA candidate, we will work for him or her," he added. Yogeshwara quitting the BJP will not make any difference in the bypolls, he said. But Yogeshwara will realise what he lost by quitting BJP, he said.

No Bengaluru Kambala on October 26: Forum to HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Bengaluru Kambala Samithi on Wednesday informed the Karnataka High Court that it has not planned to organise 'Kambala' in Bengaluru on October 26 as stated by the People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PeTA) India and has not even applied for permission from authorities for the event.

Advocate General K Shashikiran Shetty submitted that the Samithi held Kambala last year in accordance with law and the government will file its response to the PeTA petition on whether Kambala amounts to cruelty to animals. He requested the court for time.

Recording the submissions of the Samithi counsel and AG, the division bench of Chief Justice NV Anjaria and Justice KV Aravind adjourned the hearing to November 5.

PeTA-India moved the high court seeking directions to restrain the state government from issuing permission to Bengaluru Kambala. The court on Tuesday had asked the AG to submit the state government's response on Wednesday.

The AG submitted that the petitioner has based its information on inaccurate news reports.

Arguing for PeTA, senior advocate Dhyan Chinnappa said Kambala is permitted to be conducted only in two districts of Udupi and Dakshina Kannada. It amounts to cruelty if it is conducted in any other district since the buffaloes have to be brought from Dakshina Kannada in trucks, he added.

The petitioner sought directions to the state to enforce the provisions of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (Second Karnataka Amendment) Act, 2017 and the observations made by the Supreme Court in the case of the Animal Welfare Board of India and others.

Gruha Arogya Yojana will offer doorstep screening of diseases, including NCDs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government is all set to launch its ambitious Gruha Arogya Yojana on October 24, aimed at enhancing health care for rural populations and controlling non-communicable diseases (NCDs).

Karnataka Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao said that Chief Minister Siddaramaiah will officially initiate the scheme, starting in Kolar district, with plans for implementation across the state in January. The primary objective of the scheme is to address the increasing incidence of NCDs in Karnataka.

Currently, 26.9% of the population suffers from high blood pressure, and 15.6% are affected by diabetes. The scheme also targets alarming cancer statistics in Karnataka, with 11.5% of residents affected by oral cancer, 26% suffering from breast cancer, and 18.3% from cervical cancer.

To combat these health issues, forms have been prepared as part of the Gruha Arogya Yojana Scheme. Recognising that rural communities often neglect screening for blood pressure and diabetes, Gundu Rao said that the health department will send officials to conduct home visits. ASHA workers and health personnel will check the blood pressure and diabetes levels of individuals over the age of 30.

Each worker will inspect approximately 15 houses daily on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays. The scheme also includes assessments for oral, cervical, and breast cancers during these visits.

Health officials will also provide advice on necessary lifestyle changes to help prevent NCDs. For those confirmed with diseases, a plan has been established to provide necessary medications through a pill list.

Gundu Rao emphasised the urgency of the initiative, noting that many individuals ignore early signs of conditions like high blood pressure and diabetes, which can lead to severe health complications such as kidney failure and heart attacks and expressed hope that the scheme will play a crucial role in the health care of people, especially in rural areas.

Dissent brews in Shiggaon over Bharat's candidature

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

WHILE Congress is yet to announce its candidate for the Shiggaon bypoll, scheduled for November 13, discontent is brewing within Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) over the candidature of Bharat Bommai, son of former Chief Minister and Haveri Member of Parliament Basavaraj Bommai.

A close aide of Basavaraj Bommai — Shrikath Dundigoudar, a ticket aspirant — openly expressed his dissatisfaction recently over BJP fielding Bharat.

Basavaraj Bommai, however, dismissed any such development in Shiggaon constituency, claiming that the ensuing bypoll would be fought with unity.

Bharat Bommai

Dundigoudar said he and his followers felt betrayed over Bharat's candidature. The party's decision came as a shock as he and his supporters were under the impression that a party worker would get the ticket as Basavaraj Bommai had been stating that he was against his son contesting the bypoll, he added.

A senior BJP leader, on condition of anonymity, said the former chief minister had also assured the local BJP leaders that the party's top brass has been apprised of his son not contesting the bypoll.

"Local leaders and workers believed that a candidate from outside the Bommai family had a chance. But the party has chosen a dynast in place of a loyal party worker," the BJP leader further said.

Basavaraj Bommai, however, said that he has not done any injustice to any party worker. He has provided them with cabinet positions and numerous opportunities, he said. Bommai said he will speak to Dundigoudar to address his concerns. He also clarified that he had never promised a ticket to anyone.

He played down the developments, saying there was no rebellion in BJP in Shiggaon and such developments are common during elections.

Speculation is rife that Dundigoudar could contest as an independent.

CHEERY NEWS FOR BEACH BUMS

Soon, you could party in shacks on K'taka beaches!

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

IF the Tourism department has its way, then Karnataka's beaches will adopt the 'shack and liquor' culture that has made Goa's beaches a big draw. Speaking at 'Connect 2024', an interactive session with travel, tourism, and hospitality stakeholders of Dakshina Kannada and Udupi districts, in Mangaluru on Wednesday, Tourism Director and KSTDC MD Dr KV Rajendra said the department is considering allowing shacks and liquor on Karnataka beaches to promote tourism, and added that the changes are likely to be incorporated in the new tourism policy.

Responding to requests from stakeholders on the need to relax certain restrictions with regard to timings and use of liquor on beaches, Rajendra admitted that people will not come to beaches to just sit and spend time, and agreed that things need to change if the beaches of Karnataka have to attract crowds like Goa.

Further, he said they are planning to erect more streetlights on beaches so they are safer and people can spend longer hours at night. He said they have instructed district officials to look for government and private land parcels with tourism potential, to promote 'Tent Tourism' in the state.

On the request to allow visitors on beaches till late night, Dakshina Kannada Deputy Commissioner Mullai Muhilan MP said visitors are allowed to stay on beaches in Mangaluru city till 1am, after the State government extended business hours for shops, restaurants and licensed establishments in the limits of all city corporations. However, he said he will find out from the police department why people are not allowed to go to beaches after 9pm.

Rajendra said the tourism department will open a facilitation centre soon to hasten the process of giving CRZ and other clearances for tourism projects. He said the new tourism policy will have a separate chapter dedicated to tourism development in the coastal region.

He directed Dakshina Kannada district administration to map the coastal area from Batapady Beach to Sasihithlu Beach as part of tourism development efforts.

Jagan Reddy accuses sister of illegal share transfer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

YSRC chief YS Jagan Mohan Reddy has moved the National Company Law Tribunal, accusing his sister and AP Congress president YS Sharmila of illegally transferring shares of Saraswati Power and Industries - held by him and his wife Bharathi Reddy - on her and their mother Vijayamma's names.

The petition, filed last month in the Hyderabad Bench of the National Company Law Tribunal, sought rectification in the company's register of members. Jagan and Bharathi alleged that multiple share transfers were conducted in July 2024 without proper legal procedures, such as utilising transfer forms and original certificates, which violates Section 56 of the NCLT Act. They requested the NCLT to annul the transfer of shares. The matter was taken up and posted to November for further hearing.

In the petition, Jagan said he entered into a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) in 2019 with Sharmila "out of love and affection," to allocate a portion of his self-acquired assets, including shares in Saraswati Power Company, to her.

However, since these assets were attached by the Enforcement Directorate and the Central Bureau of Investigation due to ongoing legal cases, the MoU explicitly stated that the transfer would only happen once the legal issues were resolved. Sharmila, conducted a series of actions that deeply hurt him, the petition read.

Naveen Babu's death: Pinarayi breaks silence

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@T'Puram

IN his first public statement following the death of Kannur Additional District Magistrate Naveen Babu, Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan has said government officials, who discharge their duties in a transparent, honest and efficient manner, will be protected. He was inaugurating the 51st annual conference of the Kerala Secretariat Employees Association here on Wednesday.

"Nobody will be allowed to question the self-esteem of such officials," he said, without naming CPM leader and former Kannur district panchayat president P P Divya whose disparaging public remarks against Naveen Babu allegedly drove him to suicide on October 15. Pinarayi's public statements on the ADM's death assumes significance in the wake of opposition parties criticising him for his continuing silence on the matter.

Terming Naveen Babu's 'untimely' death as 'extremely saddening', the chief minister said steps will be taken to ensure that no officer meets with such a tragedy.

Relentless rain pours misery on coffee growers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chikkamagaluru

RELENTLESS rain, coupled with thunderstorms and lightning, has thrown the lives of coffee growers in Malnad region out of gear as growers have lost 30 per cent of their crops. Even black pepper, which is grown as an internal crop in coffee estates, has suffered damages. Sources said 80 per cent of the pepper vines have been affected.

Last evening, Doddamagaravalli and Chikkamagaravalli under Aldur hobli limits bore the brunt of heavy rain; coffee plants were washed away and many plantations were submerged in the rainwater.

Heavy rain caused extensive damage to the coffee crops in Malnad region | EXPRESS

Suresh, a farmer, said that his paddy field and coffee estate were submerged due to flash floods in the nearby stream.

Planter Putta Swamy told TNIE that they have never seen such a horrifying cloud burst in recent years and elderly people said that this kind of torrential rain was experienced around 20 years ago.

Pepper vines, which grow vertically on the shade trees, are supportive sources of income for growers in the coffee plantations. These temperatures are typical in the coffee growing regions of the Western Ghats. But heavy rain has increased the moisture, a condition affecting coffee crops.

However, Coffee Board chairman Dinesh Devarunda said that the board has identified areas in Chikkamagaluru district which have received heavy rainfall and requested the officials concerned to release Rs 52,000 per two hectares as compensation to the growers who have sustained crop loss of more than 30 per cent.

Dalit huts burning case: 101 to be sentenced today

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Koppal

A court at Gangavati taluk in Koppal district is all set to award punishment to 101 people who are accused in the Marukumbi village incident in which huts of several Dalits were set ablaze by people from another community. The incident had rocked the state in 2014. The punishment will be awarded on Thursday. The incident took place over a clash between the victims and the accused over denial of entry to Dalits in the village's hotels and barber shops.

Many Dalit leaders had taken out a padayatra from Koppal district to Bengaluru. Initially, 117 were booked in the case. While some of them have died, 100 accused were arrested on Monday. One accused is still missing and the police have launched a manhunt for him. This is the first time in the history of the region that 101 people will be awarded punishment at the same time.

After this incident, police had kept a tight vigil in Marukumbi village for three months. A Dalit leader, Veeresh Marukumbi, who took the lead in opposing atrocities was found murdered near Koppal Railway Station in 2014.

Some Dalit leaders in Koppal said, "The burning of huts was a tragic incident. Marukumbi village is still remembered for the shameful act. Now, the court will award the punishment to the 101 accused. Actually, there were 117 people, but some have died."

25 people admitted to hospitals

AROUND 25 people from Tambigeri and nearby villages, who fell ill after drinking contaminated water a few days ago, were admitted to various hospitals in Davanagere.

Health and revenue officials visited the affected areas on Wednesday. On Monday, villagers protested against the health officials for ignoring their complaints. The villagers alleged that pipelines have been damaged in many places of Tambigeri and stagnated water entered them. Many fell ill after drinking water from the damaged pipelines, they said. "Four people are still under treatment at the Davangere government hospital. Despite our repeated requests, the district administration did not act swiftly. We want the errant officials to be suspended," said a resident of Tambigeri. The villagers demanded that the state government provide compensation to the affected families.

KAVADI DIES WHILE BATHING ELEPHANT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

GOPAL, a 20-year-old kavadi (elephant keeper) died on Wednesday morning, after he fell off the elephant he was bathing in Seegakatte lake in Bannerghatta Biological Park.

Besides mahouts and kavadis attempting to fish out Gopal's body, the BBP management also called for the fire and emergency services and police departments but their efforts went in vain. Finally, at around 4 pm, his body was extracted and was shifted to Victoria Hospital for postmortem.

Eye witnesses stated that Gopal was bathing his elephant Sampath (10) on the banks of the river and was seated on him. The elephant suddenly panicked, rose up and began to run into the water. Gopal, who was sitting on Sampath's back when he got up, slipped into the water and was pushed further into the deep.

BBP Executive Director Surya Sen said, "This is the first time, an incident like this has happened. The lake where the elephants play and are given a bath is deep and always filled to the brim. However, today the lake was particularly slushy. It was also Gopal's first job. Belonging to the family of Jainu Kurubas, his brother is also a kavadi in BBP and they are second generation animal handlers, who work with the BBP since the last two years and had a very good track record," he added.

The animal keepers and veterinarians said, "It is unusual for such an incident to happen. Sampath is a very calm tusker, so much that people can go near him, even in the absence of his mahout or kavadi. It is surprising how he lost his cool. The incident happened when the truck carrying the elephant feed had reached the camp site. An elephant is usually bathed by at least 2-3 people. Usually, the elephants are very caring and protective, we cannot understand what went wrong," they added.

SAFETY FIRST AT THRISSUR POORAM: TRADITIONS MUST EVOLVE WITH TIME

ONE of the most iconic temple festivals of Kerala is back in the news again, thanks to new restrictions on fireworks proposed by the central government. While the Explosives (Amendment) Rules 2024 have firmly prioritised the safety of human lives, they have earned the wrath of those who love the Thrissur Pooram, which is known for its fiery fireworks display and grand procession of caparisoned elephants. The new rules stipulate that magazine fireworks should be set off at least 100 metres away from where the public views the show. The distance currently maintained between the magazine and the display site at Pooram is 45 metres.

It's not surprising that all political parties in the state are demanding withdrawal of the draft notification. They argue the new rules would be impractical at Thekkinkadu Maidanam, the open ground surrounding the Vadakkumnathan temple in Thrissur that hosts the annual Pooram. In a letter to the prime minister, state revenue minister K Rajan said the new notification could be seen as a move to break the Thrissur Pooram as they are "impractical". The minister pointed out it's not possible to maintain the stipulated 100-metre distance at Thekkinkadu Maidanam and it should be reduced to 60-70 metres. This line of argument has been supported by all political parties, including the opposition.

As politicians compete to be seen as protectors of traditions, it's lost that the new rules are aimed at keeping those who partake in these festivities safe. It would be prudent to recall that in April 2016 a large explosion during a fireworks display at the Puttingal temple in Kollam district had claimed 111 lives. Cultural practices are not static and should not be seen as such. Those who claim to be strict custodians of traditions must realise such practices evolve with time. Culture is—and must be—a living entity that evolves. Any excess in the name of tradition will be eventually done away with if it jeopardises the safety and security of people. What's important is to preserve the carnivalesque spirit of the Thrissur Pooram, which is at once a religious practice and a cultural festival bringing together people from all walks of life.

NEED TO PLAN DIGITAL DETOX FOR THE YOUNG

US Surgeon General Vivek Murthy is talking loud and clear about the oversized elephant in almost all modern-day living rooms: social media addiction. He has been running a campaign to raise red flags about screen overuse and linking social media use to mental health issues among the young. His is warning of more people suffering from low self-esteem and feelings of inadequacy, and of growing social isolation. Among other things, he is urging governments to regulate social media. Murthy, who has roots in Mandya district of Karnataka, recently spoke in Bengaluru about the issue.

The Surgeon General cited the physical impact of social media use on the US population—"social disconnection has led to a 29 percent increase in the risk of heart disease, 32 percent increase in the risk of stroke and a 50 percent increase in the risk of dementia among older individuals". The global cost of treating depression and anxiety is around $1 trillion a year. The other issue he has raised is lack of control over social media, comparing tech companies to "20th-century car giants producing vehicles without seatbelts and airbags" and "having children in cars with no safety features and driving on roads with no speed limits, no traffic lights and no rules whatsoever". Unfortunately, children are left to figure out how to navigate this new terrain even as they deal with the pressures of student life.

Murthy is among the most prominent advocates warning against digital disconnection, which is resulting in fewer meaningful interactions and strong relationships. It's paradoxical that social media platforms such as WhatsApp, Facebook, Instagram and X, which aim to connect people, have managed to create greater distances and misunderstandings. The onus is on adults to take the cue and curb the overuse. They need to foster a culture of conversation and exchange of ideas at homes and schools. Youngsters today are often in a parallel universe of updates and notifications, with a fear of the real world and inability to deal with its problems. Digital disengagement experts are proposing school campaigns for limited and responsible smartphone use, and weekend digital detox challenges. The return to more personal connectivity could be gradual. But even Indian society, which thrives on familial relationships, needs to be pointed in the direction.

QUICK TAKE

DISSEMINATING WEATHER FORECASTS

THE government's effort to make localised weather forecasts available to gram panchayats is laudable. On Wednesday, the panchayati raj ministry announced that such forecasts would be made available through the digital platforms e-GramSwaraj portal, Meri Panchayat app and Gram Manchitra, a spatial planning tool. But this January, the meteorological department announced the closure of all of its 199 district agromet units, which were set up to disseminate weather-related information to farmers at the block level. Using technology to empower panchayats is admirable, but the need for having trained officers to explain what the forecasts mean has not yet been obviated. The government must pursue both for the foreseeable future.

Death and disability caused by injuries have risen in recent decades. A model of intervention pioneered in Cardiff and found effective around the world deserves a closer look

THE NEED TO TREAT VIOLENCE AS PUBLIC HEALTH PROBLEM

K SRINATH REDDY

Distinguished Professor of Public Health, PHFI; author of Pulse to Planet

AMONG the major threats to human health and wellbeing, violence is seldom listed. It is regarded mostly as a law and order problem when it occurs within a country or war when it is a conflict between countries. Terrorism, whose origins may be domestic or foreign, also results in violence, which invites a police or military response. While doctors and nurses are called upon to treat victims of violence, the medical profession is seldom engaged in identifying the magnitude and principal causes of violence that occur in a community.

The Global Burden of Disease study periodically estimates the varied causes of deaths and disability due to different health disorders across the world. It reports the total disease burden due to injuries (premature deaths or prolonged disability) has risen across the world in the last three decades and accounted for 247.7 million disability-adjusted life years lost in 2020. With increasing levels of domestic and regional conflicts since then, the disease burden due to injuries is likely to have been even higher in 2023 (yet to be reported).

However, these estimates are likely to be lower than reality, as many cases of violence are not reported to the police, who maintain and report such data. Injuries from domestic violence, street brawls, and school bullying are among the causes of injury that may not come to the attention of the police. Even victims of acid attacks, sexual offences and criminal extortion are often afraid to report to the police, having been threatened against approaching law enforcement agencies.

Violence from any cause is not a matter solely of individual concern. Nor is it only a problem to be handled by the police who seek to catch and criminally prosecute the culprits. The causes of violence in a community need to be identified in order to reduce the risk of recurrence. This is true whether the causes are domestic or communal, political or property-related. The levels of violence, types of victims as well as the principal causes need to be identified to prevent violent acts and protect vulnerable victims. However, this effort requires data related to violence to be as complete and as location-specific as possible.

If the injury is serious, the victim is likely to seek medical attention even while the police may be unaware of the incident. It was noted that only 23 percent of incidents reported in the emergency department of the hospital appeared in police records in the area of Avon and Somerset over the same period.

SOURAV ROY

Concerned that such a high level of data discrepancy can lead to the underestimation of the magnitude of the problem and data blind spots that can impede prevention measures, a novel initiative was launched in Cardiff, UK. It collates and combines police records of violence-related injuries with those recorded in hospitals to obtain a more complete estimate of the number of people who suffered violence-related injuries and as accurate a list of principal causes as possible.

This initiative was also sparked by incidents of violence related to coal miner strikes and clashes around football matches. Discrepancies between police records of injured people and those treated at hospitals led Dr Jonathan Shepard, a trainee in maxillofacial surgery in the early 1980s, to initiate a programme that has come to be known since 1997 as the Cardiff Model for Violence Prevention.

The Cardiff model brings healthcare providers, the police and the local community together. In healthcare-related settings (such as hospitals), violence-related injury data is collected. These include location, time, date and mechanism of injury (type of assault and weapon) collected by the emergency room staff. To ensure protection of privacy and to avoid potential further harm to victims of violence, other personal identifiers (name, date of birth, social security number) are stripped off the database that will be matched and merged with the police database.

The combined database is analysed to identify the magnitude and patterns of violent incidents that result in injury. The analysed data is shared with the local community, with both the police and healthcare providers interacting with community boards. Strategies to predict future incidents are developed together by recognising triggers, patterns and local hotspots.

The model has been evaluated and demonstrated to be impactful in reducing urban violence and resultant injuries. In Cardiff, police patrol routes were adjusted on a weekly basis to include hotspots identified by the combined data. Police officers were redeployed from crime-free areas to city areas of concern at night. Alcohol licensing and sales were suitably regulated. Some streets were pedestrianised. Street lighting and CCTV camera positions were improved.

A multi-year evaluation that compared Cardiff to 14 other cities showed a 32 percent reduction in recorded injuries and a 42 percent reduction in hospital admissions for injury. The cumulative social benefit to cost ratio of the programme estimated a benefit of £82 for each £1 spent. Implementing the programme in Cardiff resulted in cutting the economic and social costs of violence by £6.9 million.

It has been adopted by several other parts of the UK and cities in other countries. Milwaukee, Atlanta and Philadelphia (US), Amsterdam (Netherlands), Kingston (Jamaica) and Bogota (Colombia) are among the cities that adopted the Cardiff model. After evaluation of such global evidence, the World Health Organization has endorsed it and recommended its adoption by other cities.

In India, urban violence is an increasing threat to life and wellbeing. While the many social, economic and political drivers of violence must be studied and addressed in a context relevant manner, the principles of the Cardiff model are worth applying. Data-guided approaches and community engagement are surely better than incomplete police assessments for anticipating and preventing violence in community settings.

All causes of violence will not be adequately identified or tackled, but there will be an opportunity to undertake proactive measures rather than merely react after people have been badly hurt. If nothing else, violence by the police themselves may be reduced by such an expanded database available for community monitoring.

WHY REAL ESTATE NEEDS TO MIND DATA PROTECTION LAW

AMAR PATNAIK

Advocate, former CAG bureaucrat and former member of the Rajya Sabha from Odisha

IN an increasingly digital world, every aspect of commerce utilises internet services to promote businesses online. The real estate industry is no exception, with buying and selling increasingly moving online. Given the digital revolution, regulating the processing of personal data online has become all the more crucial to protect individual data against possible privacy violations by real estate companies.

The Digital Personal Data Protection Act of 2023 (DPDPA) is a much-needed piece of legislation in this context. Even though it is not presently in force and does not contain specific transitional provisions such as timelines for issuance of rules and notifications, both the physical and digital parts of the real estate industry would have to comply with its provisions once the rules are out.

The DPDPA introduces significant changes in compliance requirements, data handling practices and potential legal implications for a data fiduciary, data principal, and data processor. For this, it proposes to repeal Sections 43A and 87(2)(b) of the Information Technology Act, 2000 and replacing it with Section 44(2) of DPDPA.

As a result, the IT (Reasonable security practices and procedures and sensitive personal data or information) Rules, 2011 that currently governs collection and handling of personal information in India, would also be repealed as they were notified under the IT Act.

A data fiduciary in the real estate context would constitute real estate firms and portals such as Housing.com, Magicbricks, or websites like Justdial, etc. Similarly, a data principal will be home buyers, renters, property sellers, landlords, agents, brokers, developers, builders, etc whose data would be collected with their consent. A data processor will be any third-party software as a service company or even in-house programming teams of the data fiduciary.

Compliance requirements

Consequent upon the landmark Puttaswamy judgement of the top court, baseline principles of privacy such as consent, lawful and transparent use of personal data, purpose limitation, data minimisation, data accuracy, storage limitation, reasonable security safeguards, and accountability have found their way into the DPDP Act.

Lawful and transparent notice for consent, Section 5: Real estate companies must explicitly obtain consent from data principals providing clear privacy notices in multiple languages. They'd be required to store proof of consent in a retrievable manner [Section 6(4)] and inform the data principals of the purpose, type, and intended use of the data.

Processing will encompass collection, storage as well as use. For instance, a student named X registers with JustDial's mobile app to look for rental properties in South Delhi. By registering with her Google account, X consents to JustDial processing her personal data in order to handle her request. The request for personal data from JustDial must therefore be accompanied by, or preceded by, a notification to X outlining the personal information that will be gathered—such as her location, phone number, Google profile etc—and how it will be processed.

PTI

Once its rules are promulgated, the Digital Personal Data Protection Act will affect the real estate industry, among others. Industry players will have to mind its stringent data protection requirements, and users will have to know the rights they are given

Fit-for-purpose approach, Section 6(1): Real estate companies must limit data processing to what is necessary for specific purposes, transitioning from expansive data handling practices to a more focused approach. For instance, when homebuyer X downloads the housing portal app Y, it asks for X's permission to process her data to access her location in order to provide recommendations for homes for sale nearby, and access to the contact list on her phone. X responds and provides her consent to both requests. As a result of privacy principles contextualised in DPDPA, her consent shall be limited to processing only her location as a contact list doesn't serve any purpose.

Right to be forgotten, Section 12(1): Data principals are entitled to have their data corrected or erased. For instance, if a renter no longer wishes to list their property on Housing.com, all their associated data shall be erased upon request.

The Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) mandates transparency and accountability in real estate transactions that involve handling personal data. Therefore, DPDPA's stringent data protection requirements would complement RERA's transparency goals by ensuring personal data is handled securely. Non-compliance of obligations by a fiduciary could potentially result in adjudication and/or penalties in line with Schedule I of DPDPA.

Impact and challenges

The DPDPA's implementation will greatly improve safeguards and accountability in the real estate industry's data handling practices. However, real estate companies may face a number of hurdles while establishing robust data security measures.

For instance, businesses would need to update their data handling systems and use state-of-the-art data protection solutions. Consequently, they would also need to establish compliance teams to that end. This may result in more financial and technological burden for smaller enterprises.

Furthermore, because DPDPA holds data fiduciaries responsible even in cases where data processing is outsourced, there is a chance operational expenses would rise even more. Nevertheless, companies would need to implement strong data protection measures and comply with the DPDPA provisions while upholding the rights of all stakeholders.

PM takes on terror with unity call

Says no place for double standards on fighting terror, underlines need to stop radicalisation

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday called for single-minded focus and firm support of all in combating terrorism, underlining the need to take active steps to stop the radicalisation of youth.

"In order to counter terrorism and terror financing, we need the single-minded, firm support of all. There is no place for double standards on this serious matter. We need to take active steps to stop radicalisation of youth in our countries," Modi said in the plenary session of BRICS Summit in Russia's Kazan.

The PM made the remarks in the presence of leaders of BRICS nations, including Russian President Vladimir Putin, Chinese President Xi Jinping and Iran's Masoud Pezeshkian.

Modi's remarks that there is no place for "double standards" in combating terrorism assumed significance as China had blocked several proposals at the United Nations to designate Pakistan-based terrorists. "We must work together on the long-pending matter in the UN of the Comprehensive Convention on International Terrorism," he said. "The same way, we need to work on global regulations for cyber security and for safe and secure AI," he added.

Modi renewed his call for dialogue and diplomacy as being the only way forward to resolve conflicts, in a message to press for the resolution of the Russia-Ukraine war through peaceful negotiations.

"We support dialogue and diplomacy, not war. And just as we were able to overcome a challenge like Covid together, we are certainly able to create new opportunities to ensure a secure, strong and prosperous future for future generations," he said.

"Our meeting is taking place at a time, when the world is facing several pressing challenges such as wars, economic uncertainty, climate change and terrorism. The world is talking about the North-South and the East-West divide," Modi said.

The PM also said that the new members of the BRICS must be announced based on a consensus of founding members. "All decisions should be taken by consensus, and the views of BRICS founding members should be respected. The guiding principles, standards, criteria and procedures adopted during the Johannesburg summit should be complied with by all members and partner countries," he said.

The diversity of BRICS members, respect for each other and tradition of moving forward on the basis of consensus are the basis for the group's cooperation, Modi said. "This quality of ours, and our BRICS spirit, are attracting other countries as well to this forum. I am confident that in the times to come we will together make this unique platform a model for dialogue, cooperation and coordination," he added.

PM Modi also said that BRICS must move forward in a timebound manner on reforms in global institutions, such as the UN Security Council, multilateral development banks, and the WTO.

"The hopes , aspirations and expectations of the countries of the Global South must also be kept in mind. During our Voice of Global South Summits and G20 Presidency, India put the voices of these countries on the global stage. I am pleased that these efforts are being strengthened under BRICS as well. Last year countries of Africa were integrated into BRICS," he added.

Several countries of the Global South have been invited by Russia for the BRICS summit.

Makes point in presence of Putin, Xi and Pezeshkian

PM Modi's remarks came in the presence of Russian President Vladimir Putin, Chinese President Xi Jinping and Iran's Masoud Pezeshkian. His remarks assumed significance as China had blocked several proposals at UN to designate Pak-based terrorists. "We must work together on the long-pending matter in the UN of the Comprehensive Convention on International Terrorism," the PM said.

Hoax threat calls: MHA asks states to raise spl cyber force

MUKESH RANJAN @New Delhi

ALARMED over the spate of cyber threat calls to airlines and CRPF schools, the Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) has asked the states and Union Territories (UTs) to set up a special wing of cyber commandos in their police forces, according to sources.

Over the past one week, Indian airline operators have received more than 100 hoax bomb threats resulting in cancellation and diversions of several flights causing huge inconvenience to passengers and monetary loss to the civil aviation sector.

Sources in the agencies dealing with cases of cyber crime and fraud have confirmed that most of such threats were posted on micro-blogging site 'X' and the accounts were created by using a virtual private network (VPN) and then they were chained to create dark web. The modus operandi is such that security agencies have not been able to detect the origin of the posts, they added.

The sources said a decision regarding the special cyber commando wing in each of the state and UT police forces was taken by the Indian Cyber Crime Coordination Centre (I4C) to improve cyber defence capabilities of the forces.

Prospective cyber commandos will be identified from among serving personnel (all ranks) in the various police organisations of the states/ UTs and central police organisations

A source

In the advisory sent to the states and the UTs, the authorities have been reminded of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's suggestion about a special wing of suitably trained cyber commandos during the last two conferences of the DGPs & IGs, the sources said.

It is also informed to the state and UT authorities that the Centre has already decided to raise 5,000 cyber commandos over the next five years. It is also suggested that the cyber commando wing should be an integral part of the police organisations of the states and UTs and would be deemed to be a national resource, they said.

"Prospective cyber commandos will be identified from among serving personnel (all ranks) in the various police organisations of the states/UTs and central police organisations having basic knowledge of computer networks and operating systems," a source quoting the advisory said.

According to the advisory, trained commandos "will work for their parent organisation and will be expected to be assigned roles according to the expertise they had developed during training in digital forensics, incident response and securing information and communication Technology (ICT) infrastructure," the source said.

According to the sources, the MHA's I4C will be responsible for maintaining close liaison with the cyber commandos for continuous learning, upgrading knowledge and utilisation.

The MHA has already deputed the first batch of 246 cyber commandos for six months of hands-on training at IIT-Madras, IIT-Kanpur, IIIT-Kottayam, IIIT-Naya Raipur, Rashtriya Raksha University (RRU), Gandhinagar, Defence Institute of Advance Technology (DIAT), Pune, National Forensic Science University (NFSU), Gandhinagar, and Delhi.

Shah: 2-yr-long celebration to mark 150th birth anniv of Sardar Patel from Oct 31

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Wednesday announced the government's decision to commemorate the 150th birth anniversary of Sardar Patel with a two-year-long nationwide celebration, beginning October 31, 2024.

"Sardar Patel Ji's enduring legacy as the visionary behind the establishment of one of the world's most robust democracies and his pivotal role in unifying India from Kashmir to Lakshadweep remains indelible," Shah wrote on 'X'.

Shah said in the honour of Sardar Patel for his monumental contributions, "the Government of India, under the leadership of PM Narendra Modi, will commemorate his 150th birth anniversary with a two-year-long nationwide celebration from 2024 to 2026". He added that the celebration "will serve as a testament to Sardar Patel's remarkable achievements and the spirit of unity that he epitomised".

Patel was born on October 31, 1875, at Nadiad in Gujarat and the government has been observing the birthday of the first home minister of the country as 'Rashtriya Ekta Diwas' or National Unity Day since 2014 to reinforce its dedication to strengthening the unity, integrity and security of the nation, as he is credited for the merger of over 550 princely states with the Union of India.

As part of the two-year-long celebrations, various programmes are planned to be organised across the country, recalling Sardar Patel's contribution to unify India.

Testament to achievment

States have right to tax industrial alcohol, rules SC

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @New Delhi

OPENING a major revenue source for state governments, the Supreme Court on Wednesday ruled that the regulatory power over the production, manufacture, and supply of industrial alcohol lies with states and not the Centre. In a 8:1 majority ruling, a nine-judge Constitution bench led by Chief Justice D Y Chandrachud held that industrial alcohol comes within the definition of 'intoxicating alcohol' under Entry 8 of the State List, so the state governments can regulate and tax it.

The majority bench comprised CJI Chandrachud and Justices Hrishikesh Roy, Abhay S Oka, J B Pardiwala, Manoj Misra, Ujjal Bhuyan, Satish Chandra Sharma, and Augustine George Masih. However, Justice B V Nagarathna dissented and held that states did not have the legislative competence to regulate industrial alcohol. The latest verdict overturns a 1990 seven-judge bench judgment which held that the Centre had the regulatory power over industrial alcohol. Several state governments including Uttar Pradesh, West Bengal, and Kerala had challenged the seven-judge bench judgment.

CJI bows out of marital rape case hearing

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @New Delhi

CHIEF Justice D Y Chandrachud, who is set to demit office on November 10, deferred the hearing on a batch of pleas challenging the immunity granted to husbands in cases of marital rape by four weeks on Wednesday. The cases will now be taken up by a new bench after November 20, as the CJI would have demitted office by then.

CJI Chandrachud said that he will not be able to deliver the verdict if the hearing does not conclude before the top court closes for the Diwali vacation. The other two judges in the bench, alongside the CJI, were Justices J B Pardiwala and Manoj Misra.

During the hearing, lawyers of various petitioners submitted that they would require one day each to argue.

Senior lawyer Gopal Sankaranarayanan, appearing for one of the petitioners, said that he will require one day. The CJI then noted that this will be followed by submissions by senior advocate Indira Jaising and other counsel will take a day each. "Hence it will not be possible to complete hearing in the foreseeable future," he said. The bench said the matter would be heard by a new bench after four weeks.

ALSO IN TOP COURT

'Awareness key for success of legal aid'

The SC said awareness is the key for success of functioning of legal aid mechanism and a robust system should be put in place. A bench, headed by Justice B R Gavai, said in public places like police stations and bus stands, address and phone numbers of nearest legal aid office should be prominently displayed.

'No tree felling near Victoria Memorial'

The SC directed no felling or transplantation of trees will take place for the metro rail project near Victoria Memorial in Kolkata without the nod of the Central Empowered Committee. A three-judge bench, led by Justice B R Gavai, passed the order while hearing a plea challenging a June 20 verdict of the Calcutta High Court.

It was hearing a number of pleas challenging the constitutional validity of penal provisions in the Indian Penal Code (IPC) and the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) which grants immunity from prosecution to a husband for the offence of rape if he forces his wife, who is not a minor, to have sex with him.

Earlier, the apex court had sought views of the petitioners on the Centre's submission that making such acts punishable would severely impact the conjugal relationship and cause serious disturbances in the institution of marriage.

The Centre, in its affidavit filed in the SC on October 3, had opposed the batch of pleas against the criminalisation of marital rape, on the ground that there are already "suitably designed punitive measures" in place in the sensitive issue. "We see no necessity to criminalize marital rape, as there are already suitably designed punitive measures in place," the Union of India (UOI) had told the apex court.

It said that the issue is primarily social rather than legal. Opposing the pleas, the UOI said, "The jurisdiction to criminalize such acts (marital rape) does not lie with the Supreme Court but rather with the legislature."

SC pulls up son of ex-minister over bail norms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Wednesday instructed Ashish Mishra, son of former MoS for Home Ajay Kumar Mishra, to adhere strictly to the bail conditions set for him in the 2021 Lakhimpur Kheri case.

A two-judge bench led by Justice Surya Kant, listened to advocate Prashant Bhushan, representing the families of the deceased. Bhushan highlighted that Ashish Mishra has been participating in public meetings, which is a complete violation of the bail order.

As per the bail conditions, the accused is entitled to go to the place of trial a day prior to the fixed date, Bhushan said. "Ashish Mishra went to the trial location on October 2, which was a holiday, and there was no trial scheduled for October 3. He held a massive rally and public meetings there."

In response, senior advocate Siddharth Dave, representing Ashish Mishra, sought photographic evidence to support the claims.

ENHANCING EFFICIENCY

PMO ON THE LEARNING CURVE TO HARNESS AI

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

AI for notes and efficiency! That is prime goal as the government strives to use Artificial Intelligence (AI) in a big way in its functioning. Officials from various wings of the Prime Minister's Office (PMO) on Tuesday participated in a dedicated session on AI so as to enhance productivity, speed up the decision-making process, and perk up public delivery systems.

The session sought to address the use of AI in official work, such as file management and note-taking in offices, since the cutting-edge tech is seen as a means to scale up productivity.

In line with Prime Minister Narendra Modi's emphasis on the use of tech for efficiency, Union Minister of State at the PMO, Jitendra Singh, advised the officers to optimise AI deployment in government operations.

Singh said AI could play a role in transforming governance, streamlining operations, and improving decision-making across various verticles.

The session was attended by officials at all levels — from section officers to the principal secretary to the Prime Minister. The attendees included P K Mishra, Principal Secretary to the PM, as well as Amit Khare and Tarun Kapoor, advisors to the PM. The session was part of Mission Karmayogi, a capacity-building initiative to empower government staff.

A demonstration on breaking 'hierarchical barriers' within the PMO, showed how officials could learn advanced concepts. It covered how AI could revolutionise sectors like healthcare, agriculture and public delivery services.

By leveraging AI, government departments can reduce human error and create responsive systems, Singh said.

He, however, had a word of caution: "AI holds immense potential but must be used with caution to ensure confidentiality and data security."

85:85:85: MVA cracks Maha code on 255 seats, no consensus on 33

Uddhav announces his party's first list of 65 candidates, Aaditya will contest from Worli

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AFTER the intervention by former union minister Sharad Pawar, Maha Vikas Aghadi of the Congress, NCP (SP) and Shiv Sena (UBT) on Wednesday ended days of stalemate and announced to contest 85 seats each in the Maharashtra assembly elections.

The three allies are discussing the sharing of the remaining 33 seats out of the total 288 among themselves and smaller parties. Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Sanjay Raut told reporters that all three allies will get equal number of 85 seats.

"We have cleared 255 seats in the 288-member assembly while the remaining 33 seats will be distributed soon among the MVA alliance partners and its smaller allies," Raut said.

He said MVA leaders, including Maharashtra Congress president Nana Patole, Congress legislative party leader Balasaheb Thorat and NCP (SP) state president Jayant Patil, met Sharad Pawar where it was decided that the seats agreed upon should be declared first and the disputed seats later.

"I just want to say that there are no differences in MVA. Everything has been done in an amicable and friendly way. The MVA partners will declare candidates on the seats on which there is agreement," Raut said.

Smaller parties stake claim on the remaining seats

The three allies are discussing the sharing of the remaining 33 seats out of the total 288 among themselves and smaller parties. Smaller parties are staking their claims to many of the remaining 33 seats. The MVA seat-sharing talks dragged on due to a bitter dispute on certain seats

Amid seat-sharing talks, the Shiv Sena (UBT) earlier released its first list of 65 candidates with former minister Aaditya Thackeray being fielded from his present Worli constituency in central Mumbai. The Uddhav Thackeray-led party was the first constituent of MVA to release a list of candidates. Yuva Sena leader and Aaditya Thackeray's cousin Varun Sardesai will contest from Bandra (East) seat.

Smaller parties are staking their claims to many of the remaining 33 seats. The Peasants and Workers Party (PWP) wants to contest from Sangola. Raut clarified that some corrections will be done in the declared list. "We are here to accommodate smaller allies as well. We will hold the meeting with them on Thursday and resolve the seat sharing over the remaining seats. Besides, some seat swapping will take place in an amicable way. No one should make a hue and cry that MVA announced seat sharing late," Raut said.

"We will include Samajwadi Party, PWP, CPM, CPI, and AAP. Discussions are still on for the remaining seats. MVA stands united to defeat the Mahayuti government," Raut said. State Congress chief Nana Patole said the remaining seats will be left for smaller parties.

Candidates on all 9 seats to contest on SP symbol: Akhilesh

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE suspense over the seat-sharing agreement between INDIA bloc partners — Samajwadi Party and Congress — ended late on Wednesday night when Akhilesh Yadav, in a cryptic post on 'X', announced that the candidates on all the nine Assembly seats in the upcoming bypolls would contest on SP symbol.

The post came as a major jolt to the Congress. The INDIA bloc partners failed to reach a consensus on seat-sharing leaving the Congress with no option but to withdraw from the contest and extend support to SP candidates in the bypolls on November 13.

However, the SP chief, on a pacifying note, further wrote that it was not the question of seat but of victory. "With this moto, the joint candidates of INDIA bloc will be contesting bypoll on all nine seats on SP symbol 'cycle'," said Akhilesh in his long 'X 'post in Hindi.

He added that SP and Congress workers would work shoulder-to-shoulder for a big win. He acknowledged that the alliance with Congress had increased the SP's strength. "This unprecedented support and coordination have made the workers of INDIA bloc full of new energy with a resolve for victory on each of the nine seats set for bypoll," he said.

The seat-sharing talks hit a roadblock on Wednesday when SP's Mujtaba Siddiqui filed nomination from Phulpur, a seat demanded by Congress and SP had given feelers to spare it for its ally.

The SP has already announced its candidates for seven of the nine seats going to vote on November 13. It has left Khair and Ghaziabad Cantt for Congress, which showed its reluctance on the two seats considered to be the BJP stronghold. Initially, the Congress had demanded five seats, including Phulpur.

Dhasmana made this statement while addressing a massive protest rally in one the oldest slum area. He emphasized that the Congress will not tolerate this exploitation and is prepared to fight for the rights of slum dwellers.

Hemant, wife Kalpana, brother on JMM lists of 56 J'khand candidates

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

AFTER the deadlock over seat sharing in the INDIA bloc ended, the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM) released the first list of its candidates for the Assembly elections in Jharkhand late Tuesday night, which included 35 MLAs.

Chief Minister Hemant Soren will contest from Barhet, his wife Kalpana from Gandey and his brother Basant has been fielded from the family's traditional seat Dumka.

The JMM released the first list after four hours of Lalu Prasad's RJD announcing its candidates, which indicates that the dispute over seat-sharing has been resolved.

Ex-MLA Amit Mahto, who recently joined the party, has been given ticket from Silli.

A second list of 21 candidates was released by JMM on Wednesday declaring Rajya Sabha MP Mahua Maji as its candidate from Ranchi against BJP's CP Singh.

The JMM is yet to declare its candidate against former CM Champai Soren, who has been fielded by the BJP from Saraikela. JMM's Nizamuddin Ansari has been fielded again against Babulal Marandi in Dhanwar.

After Nalin Soren and Joba Manjhi becomming MPs from their respective constituencies, their sons have been given tickets from Shikaripara and Manoharpur, respectively.

Hemant yet to announce candidate against Champai

The JMM is yet to declare its candidate against former CM Champai Soren, who has been fielded by BJP from Saraikela. Champai had quit the JMM, alleging that he was sidelined in the party. He later joined the BJP. Meanwhile, the JMM again named Nizamuddin Ansari against Babulal Marandi in Dhanwar.

Meanwhile, amid the controversy over seat-sharing, former minister Radhakrishna Kishore joined the Congress on Tuesday at the state party headquarters in Ranchi. He had resigned from the RJD during the Lok Sabha elections. Most likely, he will be fielded from the Chhatarpur Assembly seat, which the Congress has exchanged with the RJD against Bishrampur.

The RJD, which agreed on six seats, has also released the list of its candidates. It will also be interesting here that Subhash Yadav, who was fielded by the RJD from Koderma, is in jail and will contest the election from the prison. The party has declared Suresh Paswan from Deoghar, Sanjay Prasad Yadav from Godda, Subhash Yadav from Koderma, Rashmi Prakash from Chatra, Naresh Prasad Singh from Vishrampur and Sanjay Kumar Singh Yadav from Hussainabad as candidates. The Congress has already announced the names of its 21 candidates. As per the seat- sharing agreement, the CPI (M-L) announced three candidates on Tuesday.

BJP gets into damage control to stop exodus

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

TO prevent mass exodus of its leaders and joining Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM), BJP has finally decided to take damage control measures and retain its workers in the party. As 35 out of the 66 candidates declared by BJP for the Assembly polls in Jharkhand are turncoats, party workers are said to be quite disappointed as their credibility is being doubted within the party and hence are shunting the BJP to join JMM or Congress, which is a cause of concern for the party.

Looking at the seriousness of the matter, BJP's National Organisation General Secretary BL Santosh reached Ranchi on Tuesday, apparently for the crisis management, and has directed the party officials to engage with disgruntled leaders to reconnect with as many members as possible and foster a positive atmosphere.

BL Santosh is also said to have emphasized on preventing further resignations after the announcement of party candidates should be the primary responsibility of party officials.

A senior BJP leader requesting anonymity asked party officials to prevent leaders from filing nominations as independent candidates.

EC pauses Awas Yojana survey in 6 bypoll seats

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

THE Election Commission has asked the Mamata Banerjee government to defer the house-to-house survey for the Bangla Awas Yojana (BAY) in the six Assembly constituencies where bypolls will be held on November 13.

The commission has clarified that it has no objection to the survey being conducted for the rural housing project in the 288 other Assembly constituencies. The commission, in its communication to the chief electoral officer (CEO), wrote: "The commission has no objection to undertake house-to-house surveys in the state of West Bengal except in the areas where model code of conduct is enforced with effect from October 15."

After the directive, the TMC has claimed that BJP is trying to stop such work as they are against any good work carried out by the state government .

The directive came after the BJP said the survey, which forms the basis of the rural housing project, was a violation of the model code of conduct.

"The commission has endorsed our demand because the state government, in the name of the housing project, is trying to bribe the voters. Every beneficiary will get ₹1.2 lakh each for building a pucca house and the verification process is a major step," a BJP leader said.

The bypolls will take place in Sitai in Coochbehar, Madarihat in Alipurduar, Naihati and Haroa in North 24-Parganas, Medinipur in West Midnapore and Taldangra in Bankura.

GROUND REPORT

Fear grips workers at Gagangir terror attack site

FAYAZ WANI @ Gagangir (Ganderbal)

A palpable sense of fear lingers in the workers camp near the under construction site of APCO Infratech at Gagangir in central Kashmir's Ganderbal district, where militants killed seven persons in a major attack on Sunday evening. The blood stains and the empty cartridges still lie within the camp premises as police investigation is going on," said a migrant worker employed in APCO Infratech.

The APCO Infratech company is constructing a strategic 6.5 km Z-Morh tunnel, which will provide all weather connectivity between J&K and Ladakh.

While recounting the harrowing experience, the worker said at around 7.15 pm on Sunday, when he and three of his friends were in a room inside the camp, they heard firing.

"As we attempted to move out, other workers told us to hide as militants have attacked the camp. The militant firing lasted for about 15 minutes and the security team reached the place nearly two hours late to rescue us," the worker said.

PIC: ZAHOOR PUNJABI

Another worker said militants were two in number and they were wearing shawls over their pants. "They fired intermittently for about 15 minutes. They must have fired more than 100 rounds. The workers only emerged from their places after the firing stopped".

The attack was coordinated across multiple locations within the construction site

"Militants attacked atleast four places in the under construction site. They started the attack from the workers mess, then moved to the officers mess, main office and security guard office. They also set on fire a Bolero vehicle by hurling a grenade on it," a security guard, pleading anonymity, said.

In the deadly militant attack, seven persons including two J&K residents and five non local workers including three from Bihar and one each from Punjab and MP were killed.

Six other workers including two from Kashmir, two from Kathua and two from Bihar were injured in the attack and are undergoing treatment at SKIMS Soura. Surprisingly, over 70 security guards have been hired for security of the site by the APCO Infratech but none of them has a weapon, raising concerns about the adequacy of security measures.

"There were no armed guards in the under construction site for security purpose," a security official said, adding the militants had well planned their attack.

He noted that militants are likely to have conducted reconnaissance of the area beforehand. "They struck when the CRPF contingent, which usually secures the area during the day, had left for their camp by evening".

The official said since police and NIA are jointly probing the attack, the investigators might also be investigating the possibility of an insider's role in the deadly attack. After the attack, security in the area has been beefed up and a team of CRPF men remain on guard outside while a contingent of policemen has been deployed inside the camp to reassure both local and non-local workers.

Breakthrough: Great Indian Bustard hatches chick through IVF in Jaisalmer

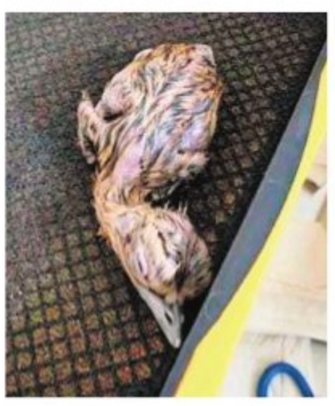
RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

IN a groundbreaking feat, a baby Great Indian Bustard was born via artificial insemination (AI) at the Sudasari Great Indian Bustard Breeding Centre in Jaisalmer district of Rajasthan. This is a significant milestone, as experts claim that India is the first country in the world to successfully breed this critically endangered species through this method.

The AI process offers hope for the survival of the Great Indian Bustard, a bird teetering on the edge of extinction.

Local Divisional Forest Officer (DFO) Ashish Vyas shared his excitement over the achievement, stating, "This is the first instance of a Great Indian Bustard being bred through artificial insemination. This breakthrough will enable us to save the sperm of these rare birds, create a sperm bank, and eventually increase their population."

Vyas also highlighted that a similar technique was tested on the Houbara Bustard by the International Fund for Houbara Conservation (IFHC) in Abu Dhabi, where it proved successful. Last year, scientists from the Wildlife Institute of India (WII) traveled to Abu Dhabi to learn this technique. After their training, efforts began to apply a similar procedure and experiment to the Great Indian Bustard.



At the Ramdevra Great Indian Bustard Breeding Centre, a male Great Indian Bustard named Suda was trained for artificial mating, and his sperm was collected.

The sperm was then transferred to the breeding center at Sudasari, where a female Great Indian Bustard named Tony was artificially inseminated on September 20.

On September 24, Tony laid an egg, which was carefully monitored by scientists. Finally, on October 16, a healthy chick hatched, marking a major success in the conservation efforts. After a week of observation and medical tests, the chick has been confirmed to be in good health.

Deputy Chief Minister Diya Kumari celebrated the achievement on Instagram, writing, "A major success has been achieved in the efforts to conserve the Great Indian Bustard in Jaisalmer. The use of artificial insemination has resulted in the birth of a healthy chick, a historic step towards increasing the declining population of the Great Indian Bustard and saving it from extinction."

Palestinian seeds join Arctic doomsday vault

A "doomsday vault" in the Arctic designed to safeguard the world's plant diversity has received a new deposit of thousands of seed samples, including Palestinian ones amid war and hunger in Gaza, it said on Wednesday. Among those deposited on Tuesday were 21 Palestinian species comprised of vegetables, millet and herbs, provided by the Palestinian non-profit Union of Agricultural Work Committees. US, Arab FMs to meet on Gaza, Lebanon in London

US Secretary of State Antony Blinken will meet Arab counterparts in London on Friday to discuss the Gaza and Lebanon wars, the State Department said. Blinken, who is currently in Saudi Arabia after visiting Israel, will travel to the British capital following talks in Qatar, State Department spokesman Matthew Miller told reporters on Wednesday. The State Department did not immediately identify which ministers would attend the meeting

BEIRUT

HASHEM Safieddine, a strongman who rose through the ranks of the Iran-backed Lebanese militant group Hezbollah over decades to become the second-most powerful person within the organisation, has died.

Safieddine, who was about 60, was killed in early October in a series of Israeli airstrikes in a southern suburb of Beirut that shook much of the Lebanese capital, part of Israel's campaign against Hezbollah. Israel said Tuesday that Safieddine had been killed in the strikes; Hezbollah confirmed the death Wednesday.

Safieddine's death came as he was widely expected to be elected the group's next leader after the death of Hassan Nasrallah, one of its founders.

Safieddine, Nasrallah's maternal cousin, had spent years preparing for the position — but the announcement was slow in coming following the Sept 27 airstrike in the Beirut suburbs that killed Nasrallah, part of a series of blows dealt by Israel that had left Hezbollah in disarray.

A black-turbaned cleric with a thick gray beard who bore a strong resemblance to Nasrallah, Safieddine was known for defiant speeches in which he vowed that Hezbollah would keep fighting Israel no matter the price.

A familiar face in Lebanon and a leader with close ties to Iran, he was a member of the group's decision-making Shura Council and its Jihad Council, which acts as its military command. He also headed its Executive Council, which runs schools and social programs.

Hashem Safieddine

Safieddine's death comes at a delicate time for Hezbollah. In the wake of its ally Hamas' Oct. 7 attack on Israel and Israel's ensuing offensive in Gaza, Hezbollah began firing rockets, drones and missiles at Israel — and they have exchanged fire regularly since.

But recent weeks have seen a significant escalation, as Israel carried out a series of strikes on top Hezbollah commanders and apparently blew up thousands of communication devices used by the group's members. It has since launched a ground invasion in Lebanon that it says aims to push Hezbollah militants back from the border. AP

Lanka deploys troops around Jewish centre after US intel

COLOMBO

SRI Lanka deployed troops and increased police patrols around a Jewish community centre in a popular surfing town on Wednesday after the US embassy warned its citizens of a possible attack there. The stepped-up security and warning came after social media posts called for a boycott of Israeli-owned businesses in eastern Arugam Bay. "The information was that a place called 'Chabad House' run by Israelis could be a target and we have taken measures to strengthen security," said police spokesman Nihal Thalduwa. He said there had recently been tensions between the Jewish tourists visiting Chabad House and the bay's Muslim-majority population. The army and the navy along with police commandos were deployed in the area to step up patrols and man roadblocks, he said. Protests by local Muslim groups against Israel's fighting of Iran-backed Hamas in Gaza and Hezbollah in Lebanon have drawn support from the wider community in the predominantly Buddhist South Asian nation.

Israelis accounted for less than 1.5% of the 1.5 million tourists who visited the island in the first nine months of this year – or around 20,000 people altogether. But Arugam Bay, a hotspot for surfing around 400 kms east of Colombo by road, is a popular destination for Israeli tourists. AFP

Protesters back on Dhaka streets, want president to resign

DHAKA

POLITICAL tension in Bangladesh was growing on Wednesday after a leading student group called for the country's figurehead president to resign over comments he made that appeared to call into question former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina's resignation in August.

The interim government was expected to hold a Cabinet meeting to discuss the issue on Thursday.

The student group, known as the Anti-Discrimination Student Movement, set a two-day deadline for President Mohammed Shahabuddin to step down. Hundreds of protesters rallied in the capital, Dhaka, on Tuesday while hundreds of others attempted to storm the presidential palace, Bangabhaban.

Police and witnesses said security officials charged at protesters with batons and used stun grenades to disperse people late Tuesday. Media reports said at least two protesters were injured by bullets.

The new political turmoil began after Shahabuddin told a Bengali-language newspaper earlier this week that he had not seen Hasina's resignation letter as she fled to India in August amid a student-led uprising.

Shahabuddin said in his interview with the Manab Zamin daily that he only heard about Hasina's resignation but had not seen the actual letter, a statement that infuriated the Yunus-led government and student activists, prompting them to call for his resignation.

"I tried (to collect the resignation letter) many times but failed," the president was quoted as telling the news outlet about the events of Aug 5 "Maybe she did not have the time." AP

4 killed in terror attack on Turkish def firm

ANKARA

ASSAILANTS set off explosives and opened fire in an attack Wednesday on the premises of the Turkish state-run aerospace and defence company TUSAS, killing four people and wounding several, Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan said. At least two of the attackers died, Interior Minister Ali Yerlikaya said.

"We have four martyrs. We have 14 wounded. I condemn this heinous terrorist attack and wish mercy on our martyrs," Erdogan said on the sidelines of a BRICS meeting in Kazan, Russia.

Selim Cirpanoglu, mayor of the district of Kahramankazan, said that the attack on the company in the outskirts of the capital, Ankara, had abated but could not provide more details.

It was not clear who may be behind it. Kurdish militants, the Islamic State group and leftist extremists have carried out attacks in the country in the past. Security camera images from the attack, aired on television, showed a man in plainclothes carrying a backpack and holding an assault rifle. Turkish media said three assailants, including a woman, arrived at an entry to the complex inside a taxi. The assailants, who were carrying assault weapons, then detonated an explosive device next to the taxi, causing panic and allowing them to enter the complex. Multiple gunshots were heard. AP

Kamala says Dems prepared if Don tries to subvert US presidential poll

WASHINGTON

VICE President Kamala Harris said Tuesday that her team is prepared to challenge Donald Trump if he tries to prematurely declare victory in the 2024 election — but she's first focused on beating the Republican nominee.

Harris spoke to NBC News just two weeks before Election Day, as part of a media blitz meant to deliver her closing argument before as many persuadable voters as possible. She said she was not concerned about the role sexism could play in the election, as she stands to be the first woman elected to the White House, and again defended President Joe Biden's fitness for office. Harris said the Democrats "have the resources and the expertise" should Trump try to subvert the election.

"This is a person, Donald Trump, who tried to undo the — a free and fair election, who still denies the will of the people, who incited a violent mob to attack the United States Capitol and some 140 law enforcement officers were attacked. Some — were killed. This is a very serious matter," she said.

Trump has been criminally charged with trying to overturn the 2020 election, and refuses to admit he lost to President Joe Biden. After a failed legal effort to overturn the results, a mob of Trump supporters rioted at the US Capitol on Jan 6, 2021, attacking law enforcement in an effort to stop the certification of the race.

Kamala Harris

At Harris' rallies, some of her supporters chant "Lock him up," something Trump often said about his former Democratic rival, Hillary Clinton. Harris often replies: "The courts will take care of that. We'll take care of November."

At a campaign stop Tuesday, Biden said, "We've got to lock him up," but Biden quickly added: "Politically lock him up. Lock him out, that's what we have to do."

"No president has ever been like this guy," Biden said. "He's a genuine threat to our democracy."

Speaking to supporters Tuesday, Trump criticised Harris for spending the day conducting interviews, appearing to try to sow distrust in the election. "She knows something that we don't know," he said. "I think she knows some kind of result that we don't know."

While partisan battles over voting rules have long been part of presidential campaigns, election litigation has soared in recent years. AP

Britain rejects interference claims in US poll

LONDON : THE government in London on Wednesday played down claims of meddling in the US election, after Donald Trump's team charged that having members of Britain's ruling Labour party work for his opponent Kamala Harris's campaign was "blatant foreign interference". Trump's legal team filed an official complaint to the US Federal Election Commission, alleging that the "British Labour Party made, and the (Kamala) Harris campaign accepted, illegal foreign national contributions". The submission cited media reports that Labour officials, including the prime minister's new chief of staff Morgan McSweeney, travelled to the United States to advise the Democratic party campaign. They also included a now-deleted LinkedIn post by Labour director of operations Sofia Patel calling for volunteers to travel to North Carolina, and offering to "sort out your housing". Foreign nationals are allowed to volunteer in US elections but may not be compensated. The claim from Trump's team claim blew up as Starmer jetted to a Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting on the Pacific island of Samoa, prompting a mid-air rebuttal.

Hindustan Unilever to hive off ice cream biz, profit drops 2.4% in Q2

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

HINDUSTAN Unilever Limited (HUL) has decided to separate the ice cream business as the board of the FMCG major feels that this segment requires separate attention.

"Ice cream, which contributes 3% to HUL's turnover, is a high-growth category that needs major investments to realise its full potential. Given Unilever owns the trademarks and know-how and has announced the separation of its ice cream business, local capabilities will need to be developed to continue running the business," HUL said in a regulatory filing.

The makers of Kwality Wall's ice creams added that this vertical has a different operating model including cold chain infrastructure, and a distinct channel landscape, which limits synergies with the rest of HUL.

As of 2023, India's ice cream market was valued at nearly $3.4 billion. A report said the market is projected to grow at a CAGR of 12-15% over the next few years, reaching $6 billion by 2027. Amul is the largest player in India's ice cream industry.

Besides Kwality Wall's, other prominent players are Vadilal, Mother Dairy and Havmor. HUL feels this portfolio restructuring will enable them to sharpen focus on the core business and strengthen its play in trending demand spaces such as beauty, foods, health and wellbeing.

> We remain watchful of recovery in consumer demand creating competitive advantage via biz fundamentals
>
> Rohit Jawa of HUL

HUL on Wednesday reported that its consolidated net profit fell 2.4% to ₹2,591 crore in Q2FY25 from ₹2,668 crore in the same quarter a year ago. The FMCG giant's second-quarter consolidated revenue grew by 2.1% year-on-year to ₹16,145 crore. Rohit Jawa, CEO and MD of HUL, said FMCG demand saw moderating growth in urban markets while rural continued to recover gradually.

Reduced prices of crude oil have made the levy irrelevant, says official

FinMin to take call on scrapping windfall tax

WITHDRAWING LEVY ON CARD

- Tarun Kapoor, advisor to the Prime Minister, said petroleum ministry has written to the finance ministry to withdraw the levy
- Windfall tax is assessed bi-weekly based on average oil prices from the preceding two weeks
- It was first implemented in 2022 following the onset of the Russia-Ukraine conflict, which led to significant spike in oil prices
- Despite ongoing volatility in the West Asian market, crude oil prices have remained subdued
- On Wednesday, the December contract for Brent crude oil traded at $75.63 per barrel, down 0.54% from its previous closing
- Union minister Hardeep Singh Puri said public PSUs in the energy domain are harnessing AI and machine learning to improve safety, security, and operational efficiencies at various locations

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

FINANCE ministry will decide on scrapping the windfall tax on crude oil as significantly reduced prices of the commodity have made the levy irrelevant, said Tarun Kapoor, advisor to the Prime Minister.

Kapoor, speaking at the World Biogas Association India Congress 2024, said petroleum ministry has written to finance ministry to withdraw the levy. "I think the petroleum ministry has written to the finance ministry. Anyway, there is not much relevance in it (windfall tax) now," Kapoor said.

The windfall tax is assessed bi-weekly based on average oil prices from the preceding two weeks. It was first implemented in 2022 following the onset of the Russia-Ukraine conflict, which led to significant spike in oil prices, resulting in substantial profits for oil and gas companies.

As of September 18, windfall tax on domestically produced crude oil has been set to zero, with similar exemptions for diesel and aviation turbine fuel exports. Despite ongoing volatility in the West Asian market, crude oil prices have remained subdued. On Wednesday, the December contract for Brent crude traded at $75.63 per barrel, down 0.54% from its previous closing.

Meanwhile, petroleum and gas minister Hardeep Singh Puri addressing media said public sector undertakings (PSUs) in energy domain are also harnessing AI and machine learning (ML) to improve safety, security, and operational efficiencies at various locations. Through advanced tools like demand forecasting, customer analytics, and pricing analytics, AI is enhancing the overall customer experience in the energy sector.

In the upstream oil and gas sector, the minister said, AI-enabled mechanisms such as deep learning are being used to analyse complex seismic data for identifying potential hydrocarbon reservoirs.

Supreme Court sets aside Byju's, BCCI settlement

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

IN a major setback to edtech giant Byju's, the Supreme Court on Wednesday in its verdict set aside the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT)'s order that had approved the ₹158 crore settlement between Byju's (Think and Learn Pvt Ltd) and the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI). The decision effectively means insolvency proceedings against the Bengaluru-based edtech company would restart.

Violated procedures
The Supreme Court held that NCLAT violated proper procedures outlined in the IBC and the settlement between the two parties was wrongly approved

A three-judge bench of the top court, led by the Chief Justice of India (CJI) D Y Chandrachud asked Byju's & other parties to approach the Committee of Creditors (CoC) to pursue their remedies. It also directed that the amount of Rs 158 crore will have to be deposited into the escrow account of the COC.

Setting aside the previous ruling of the NCLAT, which had closed the insolvency proceedings against the Byju's after it settled with BCCI, the apex court held that the NCLAT had violated the proper procedures outlined in the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) and the settlement between the two parties was wrongly approved.

The bench comprised Justices JB Pardiwala and Manoj Misra. Senior Advocates Shyam Divan and Kapil Sibal represented Glas Trust, while Senior Advocate Abhishek Manu Singhvi appeared on behalf of Byju's. Solicitor General Tushar Mehta represented the BCCI. US-based Glas Trust had approached the SC against the resolution professional for removing its name from the list of creditors. The apex court in its judgement criticised the NCLAT for prematurely concluding the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP). "The NCLAT had wrongly invoked its inherent powers under Rule 11 of the NCLAT Rules, 2016, to approve withdrawal of the insolvency case," the apex court said.

GMR gets ₹6.3k cr from ADIA to refinance debt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

GMR Group has secured ₹6,300 crore in debt funding from the Abu Dhabi Investment Authority (ADIA), the UAE's largest sovereign wealth fund and would use the proceeds for refinancing debt of its promoter group entity GMR Enterprises (GEPL).

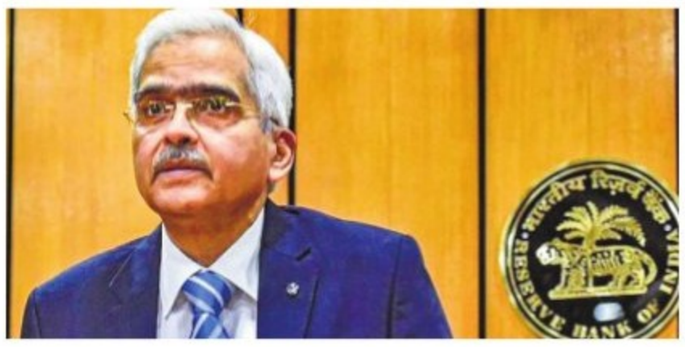
GEPL is the promoter of GMR Airports Ltd (GAL). The group operates three airports in India -- Delhi, Hyderabad and Goa -- and two airports in the Philippines and Indonesia.

"Upon completion, GMR Group will use the proceeds of the transaction to refinance all external debt of GEPL, the promoter of GMR Airports Ltd. Also, upon the completion, the GMR promoter group's pledge on its shareholding in GAL will reduce significantly," said GMR in a statement on Wednesday.

With the funding, GEPL believes that it will be able to consolidate multiple lenders into a single source of capital.

Can't risk another bout of inflation, says RBI governor on rate cut call

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai



THE country can't risk another bout of inflation and the best approach currently is to remain flexible and wait for prices to fall durably and align with the target, Reserve Bank Governor Shaktikanta Das on Wednesday said while voting for status quo on policy rates during the last MPC meeting.

"Monetary policy can support sustainable growth only by maintaining price stability," Das said, as per the minutes of the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meeting held earlier in the month and announced on October 9, which held back the rates at 6.5% for the tenth time in a row but unanimously charged the stance to neutral from withdrawal of accommodation. The decision to hold the rate was with a vote of 5:1 wherein Nagesh Kumar, one of the new external members wanted a 25 bps cut.

The meet was the first by the reconstituted MPC with three external members — Ram Singh, Saugata Bhattacharya and Nagesh Kumar. As per the minutes, Das said monetary policy can support sustainable growth only by maintaining price stability. "Taking all these factors into consideration, I vote for changing the stance from withdrawal of accommodation to 'neutral' while keeping the policy repo rate unchanged at 6.50%," he said.

Despite the near-term uptick in inflation, the outlook for headline inflation towards the later part of the year and early next year points to further alignment with the 4% target, he added. Deputy Governor Michael Debabrata Patra said a gradual wait-and-assess approach to removing policy restraint in terms of the policy rate remains appropriate as long as inflation is not lastingly close to its target.

Another member Rajiv Ranjan, executive director said between now and December, there will be greater clarity on some of the external uncertainties.

ECONOMIC RELATIONS

India will maintain investment curbs, can't invite FDI blindly: FM

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA will maintain investment restrictions on neighbouring countries despite a recent agreement with China regarding patrolling along the disputed Himalayan border, finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Wednesday.

The pact aims to resolve a prolonged military standoff and enhanced diplomatic and economic relations between the two countries. The leaders of India and China are set to meet on Wednesday to discuss this development. The border clash in 2020 had strained relations between the two countrie, leading to a slowdown in the exchange of investments, technology, and skilled personnel.

"I can't blindly receive foreign direct investment (FDI) because I want money for investment, forgetful or unmindful of where it is coming from," She said during a gathering at the Wharton Business School in the US on Tuesday. "We want business, we want investment, but we need some safeguards because India is located in a neighbourhood which is very, very sensitive," she stated ahead of the bilateral meeting between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese Premiere Xi Jinping in Russia on the sidelines of BRICS summit.

The FMhighlighted the importance of disclosure norms established by market regulator Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) that reveal ultimate beneficiary of investments. "Sometimes the ultimate beneficiary is a concern, not because of who it is, but where it is from." She emphasised that various countries have implemented regulations to address such concerns.

"FDI, otherwise, is welcome, and we have opened it up. Sebi has been forward-looking in reducing regulations," the finance minister added. The FM pointed towards India's increased scrutiny of investments originating from neighbouring countries, a step taken in 2020 to bolster security clearances.

Uber Moto, Auto to support ₹36,000 crore economic activity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

"WE estimate that Uber Moto and Uber Auto will support Rs 36,000 crore of economic activity in India in 2024. Over the next five years, the total size of the ride-hailing auto market and its potential economic impact could grow by another 50 per cent. The company has helped grow the economy whilst improving opportunities for workers and quality of life for Indian consumers," said Prabhjeet Singh, president, Uber India and South Asia. He said Uber provides earning opportunities to over a million drivers now in India.

He was speaking after releasing the Uber India Economic Impact Report, compiled by independent consultancy firm Public First, in the city on Wednesday. The report highlights Uber's contribution to transform the on-demand economy in India.

Due to the convenience of moto and auto services, both services have grown substantially in the past few years. Uber bus for ORR awaits nod

Stating that Uber bus service will be launched in two cities, and Bengaluru is not among them, Prabhjeet Singh said they are awaiting the nod to launch it here. "Uber bus service is an incredible solution for the urban transportation challenge. We are in talks with regulators. There are many companies on Outer Ring Road and people are keen to get Uber bus service. It will be great to operate 200 air-conditioned shuttle buses on ORR, where seats can be pre-booked, running at a frequency of every two-three minutes."

He said Uber hasn't got the nod for it, and hoped policy makers encourage such initiatives.

Legalising bike taxis

On the Karnataka government's ban on bike taxis, Singh said the "Union government is proposing amendments in the Motor Vehicles Act to allow the use of motorcycles as 'contract carriers', which once approved will create a legal framework for bike taxis to operate in the country". He said Uber is providing inputs for amendments, and are working on bike taxi formalisation in states across India, including Karnataka.

India looking to spin narrative

With Pune's bald black soil surface likely to aid spinners, hosts will be looking to adapt quickly and draw level in the series vs NZ

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Pune

WHEN India's home red-ball season began in Chennai last month, there was this theory that pitches for this season would have some juice for the pacers. It would serve the dual purpose of increased game time for the seamers while getting Indian batters accustomed to the conditions in Australia. While none of the players confirmed this theory, that first morning in Chennai created a sort of recency bias. The Bangladesh pacers had the Indian batters rattled at 3/34 on the first morning.

It's safe to say that sort of spice will be missing from Pune's bald black soil strip. The team batting first can still lose three wickets in the first hour on the opening morning but it may be due to spin rather than pace. As always, after an India loss at home, all the attention has turned to the one piece of land — the 22 yards — immediately before a Test. The ground staff added to the intrigue as they watered the full-length areas on both sides of the deck while keeping the majority of it under Hessian to protect it from the blazing afternoon sun. They also exclusively used the heavy roller on the watered areas of the surface while the Hessian remained firmly in place.

If this was on Wednesday, on Tuesday, they performed some shaving operations as they trimmed the grass covering. They also engaged in a bit of scruff up parts of the surface. Long story short, with 18 hours to go for the second Test, it certainly had the unfamiliar but unmistakable stench of the hosts trailing in a home series after the opener (including Bengaluru, it has happened in four series in seven years).

While both teams remained tight-lipped on the possible combinations they were after, there's little doubt what both camps thought the pitch would do. Spin. "We are going to have a completely different surface to the one we had in Bengaluru," was how Tom Latham summed up the surface during Wednesday's pre-match press conference. While Gambhir was asked some customary questions about the pitch, the inclusion of Washington Sundar is a sort of giveaway even if he isn't going to be an automatic starter. "We just felt that they have four of five left-handers in the playing XI," Gambhir said. "If we want to have another bowler who can take the ball away from the left-handers, it is always going to be useful for us. But we haven't decided the playing XI."

If Washington is to feature, it may be at the expense of Kuldeep Yadav. While Yadav has been among the wickets, Washington can add batting depth lower in the order. While Kuldeep is a natural wicket-taker, Washington can be seen as a safer option because he gives the bowling team better control. "We feel that if Washy can give us more control in the middle, it is always going to be good for us."

The Black Caps have a selection headache of their own. Their pacers accounted for 17 of the 20 scalps in Bengaluru but Latham is conscious of this surface being a different one. "Try and adapt as quickly as we can," he said on Wednesday. "If it turns a bit more, we obviously have four spinners in our line-up.. try not to go into the game with preconceived ideas." While Ajaz Patel is more or less a lock, two of the other frontline spinning options, Ish Sodhi and Mitchell Santner had a very long training session on Wednesday afternoon. If they plump for Santner's all-round ability — he has a very good catalogue of white-ball spells against India, something which could swing the tide in his favour — that will be a very difficult selection meeting.

Hosts change course?

When Gambhir had addressed the pre-series press conference in Bengaluru, the coach was keen to club the upcoming eight Tests (three in India and five in Australia) as one package. "This is probably the start of looking at eight Tests in a row," he had said back then. Now, there has, at least at the subconscious level, a decoupling. Two here and five there. "Once the NZ series is over, we still have around 10 or 12 days before the Tests in Australia," the coach said. "That's enough break for our fast bowlers. But we still monitor after the Test match where Jasprit Bumrah is. But it's about all the fast bowlers. We want to keep them fresh."

That, though, will be on the horizon. Now, needs must. What they need is a series levelling win.

POINTS TO PONDER

INDIA'S QUEST TO WREST BACK CONTROL OF THE SERIES TAKES THEM TO PUNE AND THE PROSPECT OF A SLOW TURNER. A LOOK AT THE SECOND TEST BETWEEN THE HOSTS AND NEW ZEALAND...

THE RAHUL QUESTION

Gautam Gambhir snapped in the pre-match press conference when he was asked a question about how social media has seemingly turned against KL Rahul. But make no mistake, even internally there's a debate about his presence in the side right now. Sarfaraz Khan's magisterial 150 in Bengaluru will have put more pressure. If Shubman Gill comes back into the side, Rahul is the likeliest to make way.

BALD BLACK SOIL STRIP

To take off the bounce the Kiwi seamers enjoyed in Bengaluru, the Pune pitch is expected to be devoid of any. Black soil surfaces by nature don't tend to bounce and this one could be a low, slow turner to aid Indian spinners. Some amount of grass was shaved off the surface on Tuesday.

NZ'S LEFT-HANDERS VS OFF-SPIN

One of the primary reasons why Washington Sundar was drafted into the squad. NZ do have an array of left-handers at the top (three of the top four) who are southpaws so the hosts wanted another option, somebody taking the ball away. While India haven't decided on the XI, Washington is a wild card, especially with R Ashwin also in the mix.

WEATHER WATCH

There was a thunderstorm on Tuesday night but expect the days to be very hot. While night-time temperatures are expected to cool, day time temperatures could be hot for the course of the Test.

Rachin stakes his claim as New Zealand's lodestar

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Pune

NZ's Rachin Ravindra during a training session on Wednesday | PTI

IT'S a challenging little period for New Zealand cricket. Some of their greatest players have turned down central contracts in the recent past. Others have retired. A few haven't progressed the way they would have liked. But a new lodestar may have emerged at the right time to guide the Black Caps past uncertainty and towards a more assured future. Rachin Ravindra.

In March 2023, the southpaw, at least from an Indian perspective, was one half of a match-saving, 10th-wicket, fourth innings partnership in dying light in Kanpur in 2021. Now, it won't even be in the top five of the things he has accomplished. Such has been his rise. One only needed to listen to Tom Latham when he spoke about his younger colleague in reverential terms on Wednesday. "It's a fine balance between defending and attacking (on how to play spin in India successfully)," the Black Caps skipper said.

"Each individual has a certain way of going about things. For us, it's about trying to recognise the situation as best as we can and play accordingly. "Take Rachin, for example. I thought the way he played was outstanding. You take the situations of some of the partnerships he was involved in (at Bengaluru). He put his foot down a little bit and he was more attacking in certain stages and soaked up the pressure a bit in certain stages."

The building blocks for that century was constructed in Chennai where Ravindra had a short camp before their run of Tests in Asia in September. When he spoke to select reporters during that camp, held at the Super Kings Academy, the 24-year-old had said: "When you look at the way the guys from the subcontinent bat, the way they hold their shape for longer in the lower positions they get into, I think as cricketers from the western side of the world, we are still trying to incorporate that into our spin games," Ravindra had noted. "It's about having an open mind to all that and stuff, but it's also important to remember what we do well as a team and players. It's about being able to take bits from the experiences we have had and ultimately back ourselves and trust our plan." He had used the experience of coming and playing on Indian pitches repeatedly when he was a kid and he married that with his natural ability of using his wrists and the gift of timing. The media does tend to focus more on batters who have gone back from these shores with a century. It's a hard place to get one against India's assorted match-winners across bowling types.

Overseas batters, rightly or wrongly, employ different variations of the sweep to counter the hosts' spin troika. It can be a hit and miss shot at the best of times, even on the most docile of surfaces. It's loaded with risk, like trying to play Minesweeper on hard mode. So, what Ravindra does is employ his rubber wrists rather than use the conventional sweep. He's also adept going downtown, no doubt because of the many summers he trained in India when school back home was in recess. Now, this isn't to say he doesn't play across the line. He does. But when he does swipe, he has the air of a man on a dating app who knows what he's doing.

Wasteful India lose to Germany

AGENCIES @ New Delhi

OLYMPIC bronze-medallists India wasted chances galore to lose 0-2 to world champions Germany in the first hockey Test of the two-match series here on Wednesday.

Germany, who are reigning Olympic silver-medallists, fielded a young team for the series. It lived up to the expectations, at least in the first match, with Henrik Mertgens (4th minute) and skipper Lukas Windfeder (30th minute) scoring the winning goals.

There was great excitement surrounding the series as international hockey was returning to the national capital for the first time after 2014.

The Major Dhyan Chand Stadium witnessed a good turnout but the fans had to return disappointed as home team's ever-reliable skipper and star drag-flicker Harmanpreet Singh endured a rare off day.

The Indians were slow off the blocks as Germany dominated the exchanges in the first quarter.

It took only four minutes for the visitors to take the lead, courtesy some poor defending from the Indians. Mertgens was quick to spot the opportunity and slammed home the ball for the early edge.

India's sixth penalty corner came in the 27th minute from which Dilpreet Singh scored from a rebound but the Germans protested and the umpire asked for a referral, which resulted in a penalty stroke for the hosts.

But as luck would have it, India's most trusted player and skipper Harmanpreet's effort from the spot was saved by the German keeper Joshua Onyekwue Nanji. Germany secured their second penalty corner 14 seconds from half-time, and skipper Windfeder shot went past the Indian keeper to hand his side a 2-0 lead.

INDIA LOOK TO HIT RESET

After the hurt of early elimination in the T20 World Cup, India want to take a fresh guard in a format where they recently beat South Africa 3-0 at home. There are some fresh faces in the side like Sayali Satgare, Tejal Hasabnis and Saima Thakor and they will be looking to pick up from where they left in Bengaluru.

Less than 72 hours ago, Sophie Devine and her teammates were at the top of the world, being crowned T20 champions. They might not have had much time to soak it all in as the White Ferns take field in a different format on Thursday. They have the momentum, but will be interesting to see how they start after the WC high

ODI WC SPOT AT STAKE

While India qualify automatically as hosts for next year's ODI WC, New Zealand, as things stand, are in the sixth place with 18 points. They will have to finish in the top six by the end of the cycle to automatically qualify. So, the visitors will be looking to secure some points and seal the spot.

Athletes want more seats in proposed SRB

AGENCIES @ New Delhi

GREATER representation for athletes, better coordination between government and private stakeholders and the mandate for a proposed Sports Regulatory Board (SRB) were some key issues raised by country's elite athletes during a consultation with sports minister Mansukh Mandaviya on the Draft National Sports Governance Bill here. The establishment of the Sports Regulatory Board is one of the key features of the draft bill, and the body will have the authority to grant, renew and suspend affiliation of the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) and National Sports Federations among others. It's over-riding powers have already been questioned by IOA President PT Usha.

A source present in Wednesday's meeting with Mandaviya reportedly said while several sportspersons and coaches welcomed the move, they demanded more representation in the regulatory body.

Two days before schedule, IOA's SGM postponed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

THE Indian Olympic Association's Special General Meeting that was supposed to happen on Friday (October 25) is postponed as the conflict between president PT Usha and executive council continues.

On Wednesday, the IOA director George Mathew wrote to the executive council, saying that the meeting is postponed under the directive of Usha. "As directed by the President IOA, I am to inform you that the Special General Meeting convened by the President IOA, originally scheduled for October 25 at Olympic Bhavan New Delhi, has been rescheduled to a later date," the email read. "The new date and time of SGM will be communicated shortly. We apologise for the inconvenience caused and appreciate your understanding."

Hours later, Kalyan Chaubey, the joint secretary and 'acting-CEO', wrote to all stakeholders, including the members of State Olympic Associations and athletes commission, that the SGM has been postponed to November 10. "Kindly be informed that due to unavoidable circumstances, the Special General Meeting has been postponed to 10th November at the same time and venue," Chaubey's email read. Usha and the executive council members have been in loggerheads over various issues, including the appointment of CEO Raghuram Iyer and complaints of corruption against treasurer Sahdev Yadav. Iyer's appointment had been resisted by the EC members, on account of his pay package and suitability for the position . The IOA president, earlier this month, had called for an SGM to address these issues and the alleged ineligibility of some EC members to hold their positions.

With Usha not recognising the appointment of Chaubey as acting-CEO, one will have to wait and see if the meeting happens on November 10.

Vinicius hat-trick as Real post stunning comeback win over Dortmund

AGENCIES @ Madrid

VINICIUS Junior scored a sublime hat-trick as Champions League holders Real Madrid came back from two goals down to hammer Borussia Dortmund 5-2 on Tuesday.

After a shock stumble at Lille in their previous European match, Madrid crushed Dortmund, in a repeat of last season's final, with a superb second half display.

Carlo Ancelotti's side claimed a record-extending 15th Champions League crown at Wembley and, as in that match, struggled in the first half against the Bundesliga side, who went two goals up through Donyell Malen and Jamie Gittens.However, Antonio Rudiger and Vinicius pulled Madrid level with two goals in two minutes and Lucas Vazquez fired home the third after 83 minutes. Vinicius produced a brilliant solo goal for Madrid's fourth and slammed in the fifth as Los Blancos ended Dortmund's 100 per cent start to the competition by producing another comeback to add to a vast collection in Europe.

Villa on top

In Birmingham, John McGinn said there is no limit to Aston Villa's ambition in the Champions League after beating Bologna 2-0 to go top of the table in a dream return to the competition.

Villa last played in the top tier of European football back in 1983 but Unai Emery's transformation of a sleeping giant knows no bounds as they became the only side to register three wins from three Champions League games so far.

McGinn's free-kick flew beyond everyone into the far corner to open the scoring in the second half before Jhon Duran kept up his prolific strike rate on a rare start for the Colombian.

Juve stunned

Elsewhere in Turin, El Bilal Toure snatched a last-gasp 1-0 win for Stuttgart at Juventus, striking in stoppage time to give the Germans their first win in this season's revamped league. Arsenal emerged 1-0 winners at home against Ukraine's Shakhtar Donetsk.

Tuesday's results: AC Milan 3-1 Club Brugge; Monaco 5-1 Red Star Belgrade; Arsenal 1-0 Shakhtar; Aston Villa 2-0 Bologna; Girona 2-0 Slovan Bratislava; Juventus 0-1 Stuttgart; PSG 1-1 PSV Eindhoven; Real Madrid 5-2 Borussia Dortmund; Sturm Graz 0-2 Sporting Lisbon.

Pushkar Camel Fair 2024 to begin on November 9

As Rajasthan Tourism reports, this year's edition is expected to attract over 8,00,000 visitors, including 60,000 expats, all eager to witness the grand spectacle...

SRUSHTI KULKARNI

THE iconic Pushkar Camel Fair in Rajasthan is set to enthrall visitors once again, running from November 9 to November 15, this year. Hosted in the serene town of Pushkar, nestled on the edge of the Thar Desert, the fair offers an authentic glimpse into the rich cultural heritage and traditions of Rajasthan. For over a century, the Pushkar Camel Fair or Pushkar Mela, has been a magnet for tourists from around the world. More than 50,000 camels, horses and cattle will be on display, with pastoralists, especially the Raikas, a traditional camel-herding community, showcasing their prized animals.

The fair is more than just a livestock market. Visitors can enjoy the carnival-like atmosphere, complete with musicians, dancers, acrobats and even snake charmers, alongside traditional games such as kabaddi and gilli-danda. The cultural performances, which range from folk music to contemporary acts, will showcase the best of local talent, ensuring that every evening ends on a high note.

On the first day, the festivities begin with a flag hoisting ceremony, followed by traditional Pooja and Sand Art by renowned artist Ajay Rawat. As the day progresses, visitors can witness competitions such as the mandana, a traditional Rajasthani art form and a football match between locals and tourists. The evening is reserved for the stunning 'deep-daan' ceremony, where hundreds of candles float on the Pushkar Sarovar, creating a mesmerising sight. The day concludes with a cultural performance and a grand fireworks display lighting up the desert sky. The fair also hosts a Shilpgram Handicraft Bazaar, where artisans from across the region display their handcrafted wares, offering visitors a chance to take home a piece of Rajasthan's artistic heritage. Nature lovers will appreciate the early morning walks, where they can explore the beautiful surroundings of Pushkar, including the sacred Pushkar Sarovar and the town's many temples. The spiritual side of the fair is not to be missed, with the Maha Aarti, a grand evening prayer ceremony held on the banks of the lake, being one of the highlights. The final day of the fair will be marked by a mega cultural event and prize distribution, bringing the week-long celebrations to a grand close.

Ahead of the inaugural National Mental Health Festival this weekend, philanthropist Rohini Nilekani and NIMHANS director Dr Pratima Murthy on the event which includes a conversation with cricketing icon Rahul Dravid on mental health advocacy, as well as interactive workshops on topics like ADHD, dementia, and creative therapies

I believe that people need to learn more, become more aware of mental health issues, and understand that they are not alone

— Rohini Nilekani philanthropist

VOICES UNBOUND

DESE GOWDA

WHEN you look around, it's clear that mental health is one of the most neglected areas in society and even in philanthropy," says philanthropist-author Rohini Nilekani. "Watching people suffer during the pandemic and realising that we didn't have enough resources to deploy when they were most needed made me feel that Indian philanthropy needs to step up. We need to support more research, and drive more innovation in the mental health sector." This realisation prompted Nilekani to take mental health seriously. Rather than applying the same philanthropic methods she had used previously, she sought expertise and reached out to two of the city's leading health and science institutions, the National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS) and National Centre for Biological Sciences (NCBS), for guidance.

"We asked, 'How can we help?' Fortunately, they were already working on a significant long-term research project that needed sustained funding. It focused on five key mental health conditions and was exactly the kind of strategic investment I was looking for," she adds. From that collaboration, the idea for something unconventional emerged: a National Mental Health Festival. This weekend, the inaugural edition of Mannotsava will be held in the city. It is India's first national mental health festival, aiming to break the barriers of stigma and ignite much-needed conversations about mental health. The event offers a blend of expert talks, workshops, and artistic engagements, bringing together healthcare professionals, researchers, advocates, artists, and the public.

Highlights include a keynote conversation between Nilekani and cricketing icon Rahul Dravid on mental health advocacy, as well as interactive workshops on topics like ADHD, dementia, and creative therapies such as clowning and music therapy. Public engagement stalls and thematic installations will invite attendees to explore mental health in relation to technology, climate change, and LGBTQIA+ issues. As Nilekani explains, the festival seeks to create a sense of community, where people feel empowered to seek help or offer support: "For me, it's very simple. Coming from a community-focused perspective, I believe that people need to learn more, become more aware of mental health issues, and understand that they are not alone. People who are suffering aren't isolated – there are many of us who are with them."

Dr Pratima Murthy, director of NIMHANS, adds, "Mental health is important for everyone, and lately, we've been seeing rising suicide rates globally, and within India. With an ageing population, we're also witnessing an increase in psychiatric disorders and cognitive issues like dementia among the elderly. It's important that science doesn't remain confined within the scientific community. We need to take the science out into the public to help people better understand mental disorders, reduce stigma, and promote acceptance." She continues, "People with mental disorders, just like everyone else, need to care for their mental health. Mental illness is not simply the absence of mental health; maintaining mental well-being is crucial. Knowing where to turn for help is equally important."

One of Mannotsava's defining features is its inclusion of art, cinema, and other forms of creative expression to engage attendees with mental health topics. Nilekani firmly believes in the power of art and culture to foster understanding. "Art and culture are absolutely critical when addressing most societal issues, including mental health. Artists, through various cultural mediums, help human beings understand the world around them. There are things that often go unseen, unheard, or unexplained – things that trouble people but have no voice, or issues that are difficult to discuss. Very often, art and culture –whether through plays, paintings, or films – can help familiarise society with these concepts in ways that other forms of communication cannot," she says.

Dr Murthy agrees that creative portrayals of mental illness can play a crucial role in shaping public perception. "They can either perpetuate stigma, as we saw in older films, or they can foster sensitivity, as we see today. Art can highlight the fact that people with mental disorders can be incredibly creative, and we must avoid stigmatising them as dysfunctional members of society," she explains.

We need to take the science out into the public to help people understand mental disorders, reduce stigma, and promote acceptance - Dr Pratima Murthy, director, NIMHANS

Mannotsava will be held on Oct 26 & 27, 10am onwards at NIMHANS Convention Centre, Hosur Rd. For more info, visit nationalmentalhealthfestival.com

Are there any quick workouts I can do at home to burn stubborn belly fat?

There is no quick workout or any workout that can help burn stubborn belly fat. It doesn't work that way. First, you must understand and accept that there is no spot reduction, and that weight loss is overall.

Here is how you can burn stubborn fat from any part of the body:

- To lose weight or fat, just being in a calorie deficit helps. So focus on consuming a healthy and balanced meal in moderation. Eat on time and include all the six major nutrients. Have adequate protein and fibre as these foods take a long time to digest, keeping you feeling full and preventing hunger pangs.

ASK AN XPERT

- Exercise helps burn calories and speed up the weight loss process. Include cardio and strength training exercises in your routine to burn calories. Even while you're watching television, you can continue to burn calories.
- The body decides from which place fat should be burnt as energy even when your body is in a calorie deficit and expending calories via exercise.
- Stay consistent and committed to your lifestyle to see a change.

- Now, keep the back straight, and put slight pressure with the hands to push the knees/legs up so that the heels are lifted.
- A gentle pressure can be felt at the ankles during this movement.
- Hold this pose for a while, while maintaining the deeper breaths. Be aware of each movement and breath.

A prenatal fitness class

Whether it's through personalised fitness programmes or mental health counselling, postpartum care centres are becoming an essential part of the motherhood experience

MODERN THERHOOD

POOJA DAS

IT takes a village to raise a child...Or so it did in the past. But in a world where families grow smaller with ever-increasing financial and work pressures, motherhood has become more challenging than ever before, reshaping the postpartum journey for new mothers and creating the need for specialised care. Enter postpartum care centres, which cater not only to the physical recovery of new mothers but also to their emotional well-being. Shree LP, founder of Aura Birthing Partner in the city, was inspired to create her centre after struggling to find resources during her pregnancy. "I found there was a lack of information; the prenatal centres weren't specifically geared toward pregnant mothers," she recalls. "Walking into a centre filled with different people made me anxious about what was happening with my body."

Aura provides a variety of services, from prenatal and postnatal fitness classes to postnatal wellness care and nutrition counselling. "Our services focus on balancing the mind and body," Shree explains. "We help mothers prepare both physically and mentally for labour, birth, and the postpartum phase, which can be challenging." She emphasises that while pregnancy is often manageable, the postpartum period requires more specialised support. "Exhaustion, irritability, and feelings of isolation are common. Postpartum blues are prevalent, and anxiety about caring for a newborn is widespread," she notes.

Hina Gupta, a working professional and mother, who joined Aura for prenatal fitness during her pregnancy, notes that there are still gaps in understanding the specific needs of postpartum women. "I once mentioned knee pain to a trainer, and they suggested I wasn't stretching properly. They didn't recognise the hormonal changes and physical challenges that come with postpartum recovery," she shares, adding, "Many people think it only lasts six months or a year. But it can take much longer. Not everyone can jump back into regular workouts after just a short recovery period."

Taking it slow

Even celebs like Alia Bhatt and Ileana D'Cruz have opened up about their postpartum phase on Instagram, with D'Cruz saying, "Truth is it's been incredibly tough some days. Being sleep-deprived doesn't help. Definitely not trying to come across as complaining because this darling child has been the most beautiful thing to happen to me. But we just don't talk about postpartum depression enough. It's very real. And it's an incredibly alienating feeling. And I'm trying every day to work on making some time to get myself feeling better." Bhatt, on the other hand, offers valuable advice to new mothers, "Listening to your body post-delivery is key. Do not do anything your gut tells you not to. For the first week or two during my workouts, all I did was breathe, walk, find my stability and balance again."

The New Reality

Delfina, director of ValsalyaCare, has witnessed this growing demand firsthand. Her centre is primarily focused on physical recovery. "Nowadays, one of the most common problems mothers face is backache," she says. "After six or seven months, many new mothers return to work, where they sit for long hours. To help with this, we provide back massages and hot compresses, delivered at the comfort of their home." The packages starting at ₹20,000 for 40 days are curated specifically according to the needs of the client.

Delfina says that more mothers are opting for this support, particularly when they lack traditional family networks. "Traditionally, women would go to their mother's house during the last months of pregnancy, but now, many prefer to stay in the city, closer to their hospitals. However, it is only after delivery that they realise they need more help than they anticipated."

Rebuilding the Lost Village

Haritha, a birth educator, doula, and lactation counsellor sees the rise of postpartum care centres as a response to the disappearance of joint family structures. "We've lost a lot of ancestral wisdom, especially in nuclear families," Haritha explains. "In the past, mothers would be given rest for the first few months after birth, with herbal baths and healing concoctions. Now, with women getting back to work and managing things alone, it's become more difficult."

Haritha believes that this lack of support has created a gap that postpartum care centres are filling. "Many women manage pregnancy because of maternity leave, but postpartum is a whole different game, requiring physical and emotional support," she says. Postpartum depression is a critical issue that Haritha feels is often overlooked. "Hormonal changes can lead to emotional ups and downs," she explains. "If necessary, we refer mothers to clinical professionals for additional help. It's not just about attending a class or webinar — it's about finding an educator who can provide authentic, personalised guidance."

Gupta found that maintaining an active lifestyle helped with her emotional well-being, but she stresses that it doesn't completely alleviate postpartum depression or anxiety. "Being part of a community helps a lot," she says. "Many mothers I met during the prenatal programme continued with postpartum fitness, forming a support network where we could share our experiences and ask questions."

'Don't interrupt'

Following World Stuttering Awareness Day (Oct 22), CE busts the common misconceptions about the condition

SANIKA SANTHOSH

SOCIETY has always misunderstood and stigmatised people with stuttering. This speech-related issue is a fluency disorder. People who stutter know what they want to say but the trouble is in the production and the flow of speaking. A sound, syllable or word being prolonged or repeated interruption between speech known as blocks are the common characteristics of stuttering.

A common myth among people is that managing nervousness will help get rid of stutter. Though being nervous can worsen the situation and increase the frequency of stuttering, it's not always the cause. Stuttering can be of different types — neurological/ developmental or psychogenic. Based on the type of stuttering, further management can be given by a professional. It's important to treat a person who stutters with dignity and respect. It doesn't imply they are of poor intelligence. They must also be provided with equal opportunities and platforms to showcase their talents.

They tend to be introverted based on the patterns of how we behave with them, thus resulting in many missed opportunities both personally and professionally. In society, stuttering can create a barrier that can be hard to overcome. People tend to believe stuttering cannot be managed and will have to face it throughout their lives. There are studies to prove that by seeking help from a professional, people's self-esteem, self-efficiency and life satisfaction can be boosted.

Children with stutter

Parents' views and behaviour can have a high impact on how the child would feel about his or her speech-related issues. Consequently, stuttering can have many emotional impacts on a child, starting with avoidance behaviour towards speaking, stress, anxiety and less confidence. Parents should be cautious by avoiding filling up their words or finishing their sentences, making them overly aware of their problem by interrupting.

It would be better if the parents help them overcome their fears in a social situation, along with seeking help from a professional. Knowing more about the condition and overcoming the myths are important while caring for the child. By raising awareness and fostering a more understanding environment, we can help break down these barriers. It's important to remember that everyone deserves to be heard no matter how they speak.

Encouraging patience and empathy in social settings can make a significant difference for those who struggle with stuttering.

'NO ONE COMPARED ME TO VAJRAMUNI'

...says Komal Kumar as he talks at length about the film, Yalakunni, which he has produced. He takes on a double role for the first time, reviving the legacy of the iconic villain Vajramuni but with a twist

A SHARADHAA

WITH over two decades of experience and 56 films to his credit as a comedian, Komal Kumar is no stranger to the spotlight. His journey as a hero began in 2008 with the film Mr. Garagasa, and since then, he has starred in the lead roles in around 45 films. Known for his performance in Govindaya Namaha, a trademark film, Komal has consistently aimed to sidestep typecasting. "Every film of mine is done with an intention to entertain," he asserts, adding, "Except for Kempegowda 2, every film has been a comedy entertainer."

As he gears up for his next film, Yalakunni, set for an October 25 release, he begins by reflecting on the film's title and highlights the catchy phrase 'Mera Naam Vajramuni'. He notes, "It connects well and adds an Indian touch to our Kannada film, similar to how Ambareesh's line 'Kuthe Kanwarlal Bholo' became iconic." This film is special for a couple of reasons, as Komal, for the first time, takes on a double role, stepping into the shoes of the yesteryear villain Vajramuni. "Vajramuni is an iconic villain from those times. However, the challenge was not just to mimic him but to add a twist of humour to a role that I rarely saw."

Authenticity is at the core of Komal's performance. "For me, it's not just about wearing the look of actor Vajramuni. The performance needed to be so accurate and authentic that it feels like Vajramuni back on screen," he specifies. His goal is to reintroduce Vajramuni to a new generation while sparking nostalgia in older audiences. "I want today's kids to connect with his legacy," he adds.

Initially hesitant to take on Vajramuni's character, Komal expressed his doubts: "A few people have said I resemble Rajinikanth, but no one compared me to Vajramuni. When the director approached me, I was uncertain. Even the sketches of me as Vajramuni made by the director didn't satisfy me initially." However, after much thought and process, he embraced the challenge, crediting director Pradeep NR: "The director is the captain of the ship. His vision, combined with an expert makeup artist, made it all possible."

Interestingly, Komal once produced his brother Jaggesh's film Bhairava, which featured Vajramuni. Now, he and his wife Anasooya are producing Yalakunni, featuring Vajramuni's grandson, Akarsh, in a prominent role. "It was not a coincidence," he notes. "When we planned to bring Vajramuni's character to life through me, we had no clue Akarsh was interested in acting. When we learnt about it, we brought him on board. His role beautifully captures the bond between father and son."

Another interesting aspect of Yalakunni is the legacy of Musuri Krishnamurthy, brought to life by his son Jayasimha Musuri, who plays a pivotal role. "Like I play Vajramuni, he replicates his father's role, Musuri. His presence helped me enhance my portrayal," Komal reveals.

It took Komal over a hundred films to play a double role. "Typically, we see actors portraying brothers or father-son duos, but this character felt tailor-made for me. I was once inspired by Kamal Haasan's multiple roles in a single film, and I too wanted to push boundaries, but nothing materialised. When Pradeep NR came with this unique subject, I knew it was the right opportunity."

The film comes with an ensemble cast including actors like Dattanna, Sadhu Kokila, Suchendra Prasad, Jaggesh's son Yathiraj, Shivraj KR Pate, Tabla Nani, and Raju ThaliKote among many others. "Suman Nagarkar, known for Beladingala Bale, plays a visually challenged character named Maatangi, and she travelled from the US to bring authenticity to her role. Manasi Sudhir also adds regional flavor with her performance as a woman who assists in childbirth, incorporating authentic Mandya slang," he says.

Set in a rustic village, Yalakunni is produced by Soundarya Cine Combines and Narasimha Cinemas. It has music by Dharma Vish, editing by Deepu S Kumar, and cinematography by Halesh Bhadravathi.

Looking ahead, Komal expresses a desire to revive nostalgic characters. "I'm reading a lot and envisioning numerous characters I want to bring back to life, including some beloved cartoon characters," he concludes.

'FASCINATING TO REALISE HOW FORWARD-THINKING MY FATHER WAS'

...says Abhimanyu Kashinath as he discusses carving his path amidst the legendary legacy of his father, his third outing Ellige Payana Yavudo Daari, and more

CE FEATURES

LEGACIES often shape destinies, and for Abhimanyu, the son of the legendary Kashinath—a multifaceted writer, director, and actor—it was curious to know how much this holds in his life and career. While he greatly respects his father's achievements, he says, "I just saw him as my Appa, my father." Kashinath, known for his groundbreaking films, never imposed his legacy on his children. "He encouraged my passion for cricket and aspiration to pursue it. He always said, 'Make your own identity,'" Abhimanyu recalls. "This spirit of freedom allowed me to forge my own path, distinct from the shadow of my father's fame."

When asked whether he ever discussed films with his father, Abhimanyu candidly responds, "No. When he was at his peak, I never talked about his work. In fact, my friends would tease me about whether I had seen my father's films. It wasn't until college that I watched Anubhava and Anantana Avantara because they were rated A and not available on TV, and we had no internet facilities like today. Watching Anantana Avantara with my friends was unforgettable. I remember laughing about it for a week. It was fascinating to realise how forward-thinking my father was," he adds, noting that the film even garnered attention in Parliament.

As the conversation shifts to his upcoming film, Ellige Payana Yavudo Daari, which releases this week, Abhimanyu reflects on his journey in the industry. This film marks his third, following Baji (2009) and 12AM (2012). Addressing the long gap in his career, he admits, "I was aware of the hiatus. After cricket didn't pan out, I took acting seriously and hope to make up for lost time."

Talking about Ellige Payana Yavudo Daari, he credits director Kiren Suryaa for the film's intricate character development. "The director was specific about every detail, from the character's arc to my look," he explains. The film, a thriller, weaves a realistic picture with a love story, exploring the connections between various characters and the life lessons that come through. Abhimanyu shares one of the interesting challenges he faced during filming, illustrating the meticulous nature of the production. "Despite being a non-smoker, I had to portray scenes involving smoking. However, the director thought we had too many smoke scenes and even cut some shots," he reveals.

Although this is his first project for Kiren Suryaa, Abhimanyu feels confident about the valuable experience he brings working with various directors. "I thought it was a new kind of film for me," he states with enthusiasm.
